Three Councilmen In Corte Madera Face Recall Action

Corte Madera's mayor and two town councilmen were served notices of intent to recall them last night as residents, bitterly divided over the proposed Ernest W. Hahn regional shopping center, gathered for the town's official redevelopment hearing. (Report on the hearing, page 15.)

Mayor Holmes S. (Pete) Norville, and councilmen Edward W. Colthurst and Harold B. Wagstaff, all in favor of the huge project, were accosted by its opponents as they entered the town's recreation center, and were handed the notices of intention to circulate petitions for their recall from office.

Signed by Carole O'Neil, Steven M. Haines, Marta S. Sullivan, Brenda M. Brown and Alice V. Higgins, the notices accused all three of showing "little but contempt for the thoughtful questions, well-intentioned contributions and honest requests of the public."

Mayor Norville was accused of pursuing a "policy of unrestrained growth with reckless disregard for the expressed wishes of the majority of residents," of being responsible for large increases in local property taxes by buying "such frivolities as riot control equipment" for police, and "inordinate salary increases" for town staff.

Colthurst was accused of continually abusing his public office in furthering his career as executive director of the Marin Property Owners Association "which represents major developers and land speculators."

He was further informed that his "careless public demeanor at official and semiofficial public functions has brought disrespect and disgrace" to his office and the town.

Wagstaff was accused of consistently voting in favor of further development and increased densities, materially contributing to a policy of reckless growth which threatens the small-town residential character of Corte Madera.

He was further informed that his position as architect for "numerous building projects in the town raises considerable danger of conflict of interest."

The decision to initiate recall action against the pro-shopping center town officials was taken last week, said Haines.

It was prompted by the council's action Wednesday in approving interim modifications to the town's general plan which would permit a variety of commercial uses in the Muzzi property land bordering Hahn's shopping center — land which many residents want preserved 100 per cent for public use.

Last night's recall threat was

Gray Is Ordered To Hold Tongue

WASHINGTON (UPI) — L. Patrick Gray III said today he has been ordered to refuse some information requested of him by the Senate committee weighing his nomination as FBI director.

The development came as Sen. John V. Tunney, D-Calif., expressed belief the White House has "decided to throw Mr. Gray to the wolves." Gray denied he intends to withdraw as nominee for the FBI post.

White House, Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler replied, "Absolutely not," when asked if Nixon had abandoned hope of getting Gray confirmed. Senate Republican leader Hugh Scott also said after a meeting with Nixon that the President's support of Gray "is exactly the same" as when he submitted the nomination.

Gray, resuming the witness chair, told the Senate Judiciary Committee he could no longer give them full access to FBI files nor answer all of their questions.

He said he was acting on the basis of a previously undisclosed order issued last Friday by Attorney General Richard G. Kleindienst and said he could answer "only procedural, not substantive" questions about FBI procedures.

As Gray was called back before the Senate Judiciary Committee for renewed questioning, Tunney said that if President Nixon persists in his refusal to allow John W. Dean, White House legal counsel, to testify "it would be impossible for Mr. Gray to be confirmed."

With reports growing of increased difficulty for Gray winning Senate confirmation, the executive secretary of the acting FBI director, David Kenley, said Monday, "We have no intention of quitting or asking that the nomination be withdrawn. We are in to stay."

Nixon's press secretary, Ronald L. Ziegler, repeated Monday that the President had made his position clear and was standing by it: that neither present nor former White House aides would be allowed to testify.

JUROR'S MULE WILL NOT GO FOR WANTING

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI) — "There won't be anybody to feed my mule," a worried farmer told U.S. District Court Judge Bailey Brown today.

"You won't have a thing in the world to worry about, Mr. Hall," said Brown. "I'll see to it that the marshals feed your mule."

The judge then ordered Evans C. Hall seated as a juror in a bombing case.

When the first day of the trial adjourned at 5:30 p.m. yesterday, Hall was driven 50 miles to his farm by a deputy marshal to feed the mule.

Dollar Bounces Back In European Markets

BRUSSELS (UPI) — The American dollar regained strength late today after sagging in early trading on the newly reopened European money markets.

Trading generally was light and uncertain as speculators and heavy investors studied the new situation stemming from reforms, including a float of most major currencies, created during the markets' 17 days of closures.

On most markets, the dollar opened today at prices lower than its strong performance on Monday, the first day of official trading since March 2. But as the day wore on, prices inched back to the Monday levels.

In Brussels, the official dollar quotation was 39.54125 francs, slightly better than Monday's rates. In Paris, it closed at 4.52 francs, identical to the Monday close. In Zurich, closing prices were 3.2425, a cautious rise about the Monday price.

Opening prices in Paris, Amsterdam, Frankfurt and Brussels showed the dollar down from its Monday closing prices. But it remained steady in early trading in Tokyo, London, and Stockholm.

However, Bankers and dealers said the dollar's perfomance today was no more significant—as far as longrange trends go—than its strong showing Monday.

"For the moment, the dollar seems more or less stable," a Belgian banker said. "But it's far too early to draw any conclusions."

In Tokyo, the dollar stayed firm at 264 to 265 yen. In London, it opened at 2.4600 to 2.4620 dollars to the pound, virtually unchanged from the 2.460625 level it set in unotficial trading Friday.

But it slipped in early trading between commercial banks in Frankfurt. It began changing hands at an average price if 2.8225 marks, compared with the Monday closing price of 2.8280. Trading was described as "hectic."

It was the second day of official trading after the reopening of the markets, which were shut March 2 to give leading financial nations a chance to work out reforms to rescue the dollar from the speculative battering that was driving it down day by day.

Food Price Advice: 'Eat A Little Less'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Grocery prices are likely to continue rising the rest of this year, the government said today, and one official suggested simply that one way to beat the spiral was to "eat a little bit less."

The Cost of Living Council said in a special report prices should begin to level off some time in the summer and that the rise probably would be "near zero" by year's end. Farm prices, it said, should begin to fall after mid-year and should be no higher at the end of the year than they were in January.

But overall, the outlook was fairly gloomy for the battle of the family food budget.

The council said retail prices which usually "adjust less dramatically than farm prices" would continue to rise throughout the year, but they should "begin to level off after mid-year and the rate of increase may be near zero at the end of the year."

"During the remainder of 1973, food supplies should expand significantly, although most of the expansion will occur in the second half of the year," the paper said. "Once additional supplies reach the market, farm prices should move down quickly and we should have a flattening out of retail prices."

James McLane, deputy director of the council, was asked what advice he had for families trying to hold the budget line. He suggested buying in larger quantities for possible discount rates and taking advantage of sales, then added:

President Nixon discussed the contents of the report with a group of congressional Republicans shortly before it was made public.

Rep. Leslie Arends, R-Ill., No. 2 man in the House GOP leadership, told reporters that administration efforts to increase production of food "will alleviate the condition (of inflation in food) in a reasonable length of time." Arends said the improvement could be made without attempting to freeze the cost of raw farm products which have been immune from controls throughout the administration's wage-price control program.

The Cost of Living Council's paper blamed soaring food prices on reductions in the output of American farms, in sharply increased export sales to the Soviet Union and other nations, and "the basic health of our economy" which it said permitted Americans to buy more expensive food.

"During the remainder of 1973, food supplies should expand significantly, although most of the expansion will occur in the second half of the year," the paper said. "Once additional supplies reach the market, farm prices should move down quickly and we should have a flattening out of retail prices."

The council said its prediction was based on an assumption of normal weather. Unfavorable weather would aggravate the price picture while unusually good weather would improve it.

In advance of the White House development, Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz suggested to cattlemen that they send some of their older beef cows to market this year.

A cattle industry spokesman went a step further and urged producers to market some younger female stock along with older cows.

Butz' suggestion to cattlemen was part of the administration pattern of seeking to damp down food inflation by spurring increases in supply rather than using price controls.

Reds Promise To Release All POWs Within Week

SAIGON (UPI) — The Communists promised today to free part of the last group of American prisoners by Sunday and the rest no later than the following Wednesday, enabling 5,300 more U.S. servicemen stationed in Vietnam to go home.

The Communists still hold 146 Americans—140 military prisoners and six civilians—plus one Canadian. Another 10 Americans were reported held in Laos and there has been no word on when they would be freed although a shaky ceasefire is in effect in that country, too.

So far, 441 Americans have een released, including 17 civilians and two fliers held by China. One group of 27 was freed at Loc Ninh, 75 miles north of Saigon, but all the rest, except for the two released by China, were turned over at Hanoi.

Lt. Nguyen Sinh, Viet Cong deputy press officer, said the Provisional Revolutionary Government (Viet Cong) would release its last group of prisoners by Sunday. However, he did not give an exact date, place of release or say how many prisoners were involved.

Lt. Col. Bui Tin, spokesman for the North Vietnamese delegation to the Joint Military Commission (JMC), said 107 prisoners would be released at Hanoi's Gia Lam Airport "by the termination date." This referred to March 28, which is the deadline for the return of all POWS and the exit of U.S. troops from Vietnam.

A Saigon spokesman said the South Vietnamese-Communist prisoner exchange program was progressing despite scattered attacks across the country. The program, which is now three-fourths finished, is also scheduled to be ended by Sunday.

By Sunday, 26,722 Communists will have been exchanged for 4,753 South Vietnamese soldiers.

American troop withdrawals have been held up, pending the announcement of details on the final POW release. About 5,300 of the remaining 6,300 U.S.

Indian Leaders Request Recall Of Tribal Chief

WOUNDED KNEE, S. D. (UPI) — Leaders of the American Indian Movement (AIM) formally requested a recall of their tribal chief yesterday, a major development that could help resolve the three-week armed occupation of this tiny hamlet on the sprawling Pine Ridge Indian reservation.

One of two chief stumbling blocks to the settlement has been the demand by the AIM that Dick Wilson, tribal chairman, and most of the other elected officials on the reservation be ousted.

AIM leaders issued their "final ultimatum" yesterday after rejecting the government's "final offer." Along with the ultimatum, AIM submitted a petition asking for a recall election to oust Wilson and establish a new system of tribal government.

The petition was accompanied by 1,445 signatures, more than enough to force an election if all are valid.

"This is the legal structure that we had set up for them to use," said Wilson, who did not protest the petition. "This is what they should have been using all the time, the legally structured setup."

Wilson said if the signatures are valid, an election could be held within the next 45 days. He left no doubts that he expected to run again for tribal chairman—and win.

Horace Webb, a Justice Department spokesman, said the government had received the Indian's latest proposal but had "no comment." He said the Indian petition dealt with one of two major problems involved in reaching a settlement. The other problem, according to Webb, is how to deal with the Indians occupying the settlement.

The Indians, who have declared themselves independent from the United States, said in yesterday's ultimatum that presidential intervention may be the only way to solve the problem. However, it appeared the AIM leaders were anxious for an early settlement, despite their public attitude.

Wilson, 38, a plumber, was elected tribal chairman in November, 1971. He took office last April.

A $2 Million Lottery Ticket

RIO DE JANEIRO (UPI) — Odorico Guimaraes Lopes, 67, read all the newspapers, looked at the soccer predictions of the sports experts and then bet against the favorites.

Yesterday he became the lone winner of Brazil's sports lottery prize of $2,206,676.37, a probable world record.

Skies Will Turn Cloudy Tomorrow

The storm that dumped heavy rain on Marin and Southern Sonoma yesterday and last night will dissipate into clouds by tomorrow, the weatherman predicted. Today, the first day of spring, dawned partly cloudy.

Rainfall in the 24 hours ending at 8 a.m. today ranged from .92 of an inch in Sausalito to 1.31 inches in Novato. In Petaluma, .73 of an inch was recorded.

Partly cloudy weather was predicted for tonight and tomorrow.

Bomb Threat At Civic Center

A small fire yesterday in a women's restroom at the Marin County Civic Center was followed by a telephoned hoax bomb threat, Sheriff Louis P. Mountanos reported today.

The fire was in a wastebasket in the washroom near the escalator on the second level of the administration wing. It did no damage, but about 15 minutes later a caller told the civic center switchboard operator, "If you think that fire was something, wait until you get a bomb tomorrow."

Business continued as usual in the building. Employees and janitors were instructed to make a routine check today of their working areas for any bomb, but nothing was found, Mountanos said.

Athens Police Storm University Law School; Drag Out Students

ATHENS (UPI) — Club-swinging police today stormed the Athens University Law School and dragged demonstrating students out by their hair, kicking and beating them. The students, many screaming, sang the Greek national anthem.

Hundreds of police took part in the assault on the building where a group of 1,000 students had climbed to the roof and chanted freedom slogans.

Witnesses said more than 100 students emerged from the building bleeding and at least a dozen were carried out by other students. One policeman also was carried to a police car barely conscious, the witnesses said.

Several hundred uniformed police entered the building while others stationed outside met the fleeing students with swinging clubs, dragged them by the hair, threw them on the pavement and beat and kicked them, the witnesses said.

Inside the building witnesses heard screams of pain and the singing of the Greek National anthem.

Police had cordoned off the area around the law school in the civic center of the city two hours before they moved in on the building. A handful of passersby who inadvertently entered the area were pushed and kicked by police.

Minister of Public Order Vassilios Tsoumbas said the forced evacuation of the building was ordered by the University Senate and carried out in accordance with the law.

The students, who last month barricaded themselves in the same building for 30 hours, held a meeting in the law school auditorium and then climbed to the roof.

The students lowered the flag and began to chant "we want the restoration of democratic freedoms," "we want freedom of the press to report what they see," "we are your children," "we are the children of Greece" and other rythmic slogans.

Police cars sped to the area and cordoned it off, preventing pedestrians from approaching the building. Other police officers cleared parks nearby of all persons.

The government of Premier George Papadopoulos has responded to the student demonstrations in the past with promises for better studying conditions coupled with a law for drafting misbehaving students into the army.

Mitchell Admits Wiretap Without His Signature

MIAMI (UPI) — Former U.S. Attorney General John Mitchell told a federal court hearing Monday that Richard Kleindienst, who later succeeded him in office, once signed a wiretap request without his authorization.

Mitchell testified before U.S. District Judge William O. Mehrtens in a hearing ordered by the U.S. 5th Circuit Court on defense motions to suppress evidence obtained by wiretaps in numerous cases involving charges of narcotics, gambling, extortion, racketeering and tax evasion.

Attorneys Jay Hogan, Donald Bierman and Daniel Pearson conducted the questioning of Mitchell for two-and-half hours on behalf of 28 defense lawyers.

Hogan asked Mitchell if he had authorized a wiretap request signed by Kleindienst, then one of his assistants, on Aug. 7, 1970.

"I did not give Mr. Kleindienst specific authorization," Mitchell replied.

When he was out of the city, Mitchell said, he would authorize Saul Lindenbaum by telephone to sign those initials. But when he was out of the country, Mitchell said, Lindenbaum would sign without consulting him "because he knew my policies and he had worked with me for a long time in these matters."

At issue in the hearings, continuing today, is whether Congress intended to allow only the attorney general and eight assistants to seek wiretaps from federal judges, or whether Mitchell could authorize other persons to request the wiretaps.

Antiaircraft Guns In Place At Palace As Safety Measure

PHNOM PENH (UPI) — U.S.-made antiaircraft guns were placed today around the presidential palace, the scene of a weekend bombing raid by a hijacked warplane that killed 47 persons and wounded at least 50.

"We aren't taking any chances," a palace source said of the installation of new antiaircraft guns in the palace grounds. "So Potra still has the plane and he could come back and try again."

He referred to ex-Royal Cambodian Air Force pilot So Potra, son-in-law of deposed Prince Norodom Sihanouk, who was identified by the government as the renegade pilot who stole a single-engined T28 bomber from nearby Pochentong Airport and dropped two 250-pound bombs on the palace compound.

So Potra flew off unchallenged after the bombing, which President Lon Nol sid was an assassination attempt on him. Government sources said they think the pilot landed the plane at a Communist-held rubber plantation near the South Vietnam border.

The incident marked the first time since World War II that the capital has been bombed.

Phnom Penh itself was relatively quiet except for new arrests of alleged dissidents and reverberations from explosions during the night south of the city, believed caused by U.S. B52 bombers. Windows rattled and a first, some residents feared another Communist rocket attack such as the one Sunday that killed nine persons in a Phnom Penh suburb.

U.S. Pacific Forces headquarters in Honolulu confirmed that US. warplanes again hit Communist positions Monday in Cambodia, but as usual did not say where the targets were located.

However, refugees from Chambak, 20 miles south of Phnom Penh, said the town was leveled by B52 bombing. Heavy fighting also was reported 18 miles south of the capital on Highway 2 as government troops tried to clear Communist forces holding the road.

Lon Nol went on a nationwide broadcast Sunday to claim that the palace bombing was part of a subversive plot to destroy the republic. The ailing, 59-year-old chief executive declared a "state of siege" and suspended all civil liberaties guaranteed by the Constitution—including freedom of expression, speech, press and assembly and rights of privacy of residence and correspondence.

A New Deal Is Offered To Ireland

LONDON (UPI) — Britain today offered Northern Ireland a new political deal designed to end the bloodshed that has swamped the province for four years.

In an official government white paper it called for sharing of power by the Protestant majority and Roman Catholic minority, guarantees of human rights, an end to discrimination and an all-Ireland conference on the province's future.

But it announced Britain will maintain indefinitely the direct rule from London it imposed a year ago on March 24, 1972, when it suspended the province's local government and parliament at Stormont.

It promised Northern Ireland will remain part of the United Kingdom as long as a majority of its population wishes.

The proposals included setting up an 80-member Northern Ireland provincial assembly elected under the proportional representation system.

This was designed to give the Roman Catholics, who constitute one-third of Northern Ireland's 1.5 million population, a greater share in its government.

The white paper said the proposed conference would discuss the best means of dealing with Northern Ireland's future, the possibility of later changes, cooperation of North and South and concerted action against "terrorism" in the North.

"The proposals," the white paper said, "provide an opportunity for all law-abiding people to stand together against those small but dangerous minorities which would seek to impose their views by violence and coercion and which cannot, therefore, be allowed to participate in the working of institutions they wish to destroy."

The white paper announced a secretary of state for Northern Ireland will continue to hold a seat in the British cabinet and to exercise executive responsibility for law and order.

William Whitelaw, 52, has held this job for the past year.

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

Rate Probe Set

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government yesterday summoned six of the nation's largest banks to appear Thursday and explain their raising of interest rates for prime business loans.

Led by the Manufacturers Hanover Co. of New York, the banks announced increases in the prime interest rate yesterday from 6¼ to 6¾. Past increases have normally been in increments of ⅛ or ¼ point.

Arthur F. Burns, chairman of the Federal Reserve Board and also head of the Committee on Interest and Dividends, which is part of the government's wage-price control system, quickly challenged the increases, saying it was not clear they complied with government criteria set last month.

The other banks are Marine Midland Bank of New York, First National Bank of Boston, First Pennsylvania Bank of Philadelphia, Southern California First National Bank of Los Angeles and Franklin National Bank of New York.

To Join Russians

SPACE CENTER, Houston (UPI) — The Soviet Union will allow U.S. space technicians inside their mission control center for the first time during the historic American-Russian joint Earth orbital flight, a Soviet space scientist said yesterday.

A three-man American crew headed by space veteran Thomas P. Stafford will rendezvous and dock with the Soyuz and orbit the Earth for about two days. The mission was approved during President Nixon's visit to Russia last year.

Border Attacks

KUWAIT (UPI) — Iraqi troops attacked and seized one Kuwaiti border post and shelled another today in what Arab observers called the worst such incident between the two countries since Kuwait gained its independence in 1961.

The Kuwait government said parliament met in an emergency session that lasted five hours. Foreign Minister Sabah Al-Ahmed al-Jaber warned his country will take "all necessary steps" to protect itself.

The raid turned a longstanding border dispute into an international incident.

Guards Return

WALPOLE, Mass. (UPI) — Guards at Walpole State Prison, on strike for five days, returned to their posts last night following issuance of a temporary injunction against them by the state Supreme Court.

The injunction was issued by Justice Edward J. Hennessey, who enjoined the 120 guards from "engaging in, or inducing, or encouraging any strike, work stoppage or withholding of services by correctional officers at the Massachusetts Correctional Institution, Walpole."

The guards struck over dissatisfaction with Corrections Department policies which they said were giving control of the prison to the inmates and threatening the safety of the guards.

Another Death

BELFAST (UPI) — A Protestant teen-ager found shot in a Roman Catholic area died early today and there was more bombing and shooting in Northern Ireland amid reports Britain is ready to outline its plans for the political future of the province.

The death of 18-year-old Robert Collins, found shot in the head early Sunday, raised the toll of casualties in three and one-half years of violence among security forces, Protestants and Catholics to 752.

Girl Is Stabbed To Death In Oakland School

OAKLAND (UPI) — A 13-year-old girl was stabbed to death at Technical High School Monday during a fight which started when she pulled a chair out from under a boy in the cafeteria.

The victim was identified as Rita King, Oakland.

Police said she had elbowed her way into a food line in front of three boys. They said a quarrel erupted and Miss King pulled the chair.

She was stabbed once in the chest during a melee. She died in the hall outside the cafeteria.

School officials shut down the campus after the incident because of general unrest.

What Was ITT's Role In Chile?

WASHINGTON (UPI) — On July 26, 1970, President Harold Geneen of International Telephone & Telegraph Corp. went into a Washington hotel room for a meeting with one of the nation's top spies and emerged an hour later telling him, "keep in touch."

The subject of the meeting was not ITT's antitrust problems, although that was very much on Geneen's mind at the time. It concerned instead the corporation's growing concern that Salvador Allende, a Marxist, was about to take over as the president of Chile.

In the hotel room with Geneen, the nation's highest paid business executive, was William V. Broe, the chief of Clandestine Services, Western Hemisphere, Directorate of Plans, Central Intelligence Agency.

What the two men discussed may never be known fully. But some details are expected to begin emerging today as a special Senate Foreign Relations subcommittee on multinational corporations starts public hearings on ITT's alleged efforts to keep Allende out of power and protect its multimillion dollar investment in the copper-rich Latin American country.

Chairman Frank Church, D-Idaho, said the subcommittee would "seek to ascertain whether the ITT corporation and the Central Intelligence Agency cooperated in an effort to prevent Allende from being elected president of Chile in 1970."

Senate sources said subcommittee investigators have sheafs of documenting memoranda subpoenaed from the corporation to back up charges of ITT-CIA cooperation to block Allende and foment domestic insurrection against him. One of the memos, which has never been published before, describes how William R. Merriam, head of ITT's Washington office, drove Geneen to the Sheraton Carlton Hotel for the meeting with Broe.

Merriam is scheduled as the opening witness today and the subcommittee is expected to press him on how the meeting with a top spy was arranged and who arranged it. More information may come next week when John J. McCone, former director of the CIA, testifies. McCone is now a director of ITT.

Senate sources said the subcommittee also may depart from the Chilean angle of the case to pursue unanswered questions about ITT's political connections with the Nixon administration and how they may have figured in the Justice Department's 1971 decision to drop an antitrust case against ITT's acquisition of the Hartford Fire Insurance Co., the largest merger in corporate history. That case was settled out of court 10 days after ITT's Sheraton Division offered to help underwrite the costs of the Republican National Convention.

Internal working papers of the Securities and Exchange Commission released Monday disclosed close contacts before the settlement between ITT officials and Vice President Spiro T. Agnew, former Attorney General John N. Mitchell and former Commerce Secretary Maurice Stans.

Landowner Protests Head Off Mill Valley Land Moratorium

By GEORGE NEVIN

Faced with the stiff opposition of two landowners, the Mill Valley City Council last night delayed slapping a moratorium on development of remaining open land in the city.

One vote short of the necessary four, councilmen put the controversial matter over to April 2.

The moratorium, approved two weeks ago on first reading, would have prevented large subdivisions until the city updates its general plan, a job estimated to take two years.

When it became evident last night that the council majority was one vote short of passage — Edward J. Boessenecker said he opposed it and Robert E. Capron abstained — Robert E. Burton suggested the delay.

State law requires an urgency ordinance such as this one to be passed by a four fifths majority, City Atty. Leland H. Jordan said.

Earlier, two property owners bitterly attacked the couneil for proposing the moratorium.

"You're asking us to pay big taxes on our land so we can serve as custodians until you can buy it," charged Carmelita B. Silberberg.

She said she and her two sisters, co-owners of 82 acres on and near the North Ridge, pay $36,000 per year in interest and taxes.

"We want a moratorium on our taxes. We don't want the city or county to get a dime of our money. I don't think it's fair; I think it's unjust," she said.

The sisters "lost a $375,000 sale" of the land due to the interest shown in acquiring it for open space, she said.

The proposed moratorium would not halt development — a ban on sewer connections in Southern Marin already has done that — but would prevent property owners from filing development plans with the city.

"That's inverse condemnation of our land," Mrs. Silberberg said heatedly. "We're not going to stand for this any more."

Her husband, Arthur G. Silberberg, threatened a lawsuit if the moratorium is enacted.

The three sisters — Mrs. Silberberg, Ida M. Gross and Hilarita Silberberg — are descendents of the Boyle family, donors of Boyle Park. The family originally received the land as a Spanish land grant.

Throughout the one-hour discussion of the moratorium, the two sisters (Hilarita Silberberg was not present) murmured disagreement with the council, talking about lawsuits, condemnation and unfair taxes.

Need For Scare In Energy Seen

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Richard G. Folsom, president of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers, told a national energy forum here Monday that the nation needs a "Pearl Harbor in energy"—a catastrophe—to awaken the public to the need to conserve fuels.

"If I had some way to freeze all the gasoline pumps across this nation tomorrow," he said, "that would do it."

Sen. Jennings Randolph, D-W. Va., told the forum that auto manufacturers have contributed to the wasting of energy sources because "their motivation was profits rather than conservation of energy."

Sporting Goods Auction April 8

About $10,000 in sporting goods will be sold at auction from 1 to 3 p.m. April 8 at the Corte Madera Recreation Center, announced Grace Kerson of Belvedere, auction sponsor.

Profits will go to Vine Village, a 40-acre ranch in Napa Valley for mentally retarded adults, said Mrs. Kerson, secretary-treasurer of Vine Village Board of Directors. Preview of items to be sold will be from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Tricia Reported Feeling 'Better'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The White House says Tricia Nixon Cox, admitted to Georgetown University last week for medical tests, is up and around and feeling "much better."

Johnny Carson's Son Faces Drug, Driving Charges

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (UPI) — Richard Carson, 20, son of television entertainer Johnny Carson, passed up a circuit court appearance Monday for a jury trial on motor vehicle and drug charges.

Carson was scheduled to appear in court but a spokesman for the court said he had elected a jury trial. The trial date was not set.

Carson was arrested Jan. 31 by state police as he was driving a car registered to his father. A state trooper charged the younger Carson with illegal possession of drugs, operating a motor vehicle under the influence of drugs, and driving without an operator's license. He was released on $150 bond at the time.

Valenti Sentenced To Year In Prison

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UPI) — Underworld figure Frank J. Valenti was sentenced Monday to one year in prison for violating the federal law that prohibits felons from shipping guns across state lines.

A federal judge said Valenti could serve the term concurrently with a one year contempt of court sentence he is now serving in Rochester, N.Y. Federal agents raided Valenti's house last October, shortly after he moved here from New York, and found four guns.

Jean Barnard Reelected As Mayor Of Mill Valley

Mill Valley City Councilman Gerald J. Hood, who led the fight last October to cut Mayor Jean S. Barnard's term to one year, last night nominated her for a second term.

Councilmen quickly and unanimously elected her.

Prefacing his request by reading a prepared statement, Hood praised the mayor for her "sincere and consistent efforts" to further the concept of a one-year mayor's term once the council had overriden her and made the change.

Mrs. Barnard, he said, is "indefatigable in her efforts on behalf of the city" and "should receive a second term because she has earned it."

Hood campaigned last year on a pledge to cut the mayor's term from two years to one.

A bitter fight ensued after he was successful, with groups lining up for and against the action. Through it all, Mrs. Barnard contended she, as the incumbent mayor, should be exempt from the change.

Councilmen also approved four to one another Hood motion, this one to continue making appointments to city commissions by agreement among council members. Before the council instituted the practice as an experiment, commissioners were named by the mayor.

Robert E. Burton voted no on the measure, saying the practice has worked but carries with it "the possibility of a popularity contest."

Residential Zoning Set For 66 Acres

The Novato City Council last night designated hill and residential zoning for the 66-acre Woodland Co. parcel off Olive Avenue, thus permitting higher density than previously set for the area.

Councilmen last Tuesday approved 40,000 square-foot lots for the area, about 70 homes on the 66 acres, while the hill and canyon residential designation will permit from 56 to 125 homes, depending upon slope.

Reconsideration of the density for the area is on the agenda for tonight's council meeting, which will start at 8 p.m. at the Novato Community House.

Continuing review of the Novato General Plan, the council designated Deer Island and adjacent land, about 370 acres, for agriculture and further study, the Sandbach property, 10 acres at San Marin Drive and Seventh Street extension, for hill and canyon residential, and about 30 acres identified as "Railroad Avenue wedge" as part of the downtown plan area with residential and some service commercial uses.

In the joint meeting with the city's environmental quality committee, the council encouraged the committee to submit whatever reports it sees fit.

POWS

About 1,000 will remain in Vietnam as members of the defense attache office (DAO), the permanent troop contingent approved under the Paris agreement. It was not clear when the troop withdrawals would resume, but apparently not until all the details of the last release have been ironed out.

In South Vietnam, government spokesman Lt. Col. Le Trung Hien said the situation at the besieged Tong Le Chan base camp 50 miles north of Saigon was "critical" and that no aid had reached the 500 Rangers trapped in the outpost.

Huen said earlier the South Vietnamese would have to stage a counterattack to relieve the battered troops if the peacekeeping force did not take some action.

Hien said 12 Rangers have been killed and 61 wounded since the Communists surrounded the base last week. Except for a few wounded who were evacuated early in the attack, most of the injured men are still in the camp.

South Vietnamese medical helicopters have not been able to evacuate the wounded because of heavy ground fire.

Hien said the situation was not as serious at Rach Bap, a militia base about 30 miles closer to Saigon. About 100 South Vietnamese are also surrounded there. The attack at Rach Bap, which started the same time as the move against Tong Le Chan, has left eight dead and 18 wounded, including the company commander.

Hien said the South Vietnamese have asked for help from both the JMC and the International Commission for Control and Supervision (ICCS), but neither has responded.

Whiting Death Due To Drugs

GILA BEND, Ariz. (UPI) — Sarah Miles' business manager died of a drug overdose, not a beating, a second autopsy has confirmed.

The Los Angeles County medical examiner, Dr. Thomas Noguchi, confirmed that the body of David Whiting contained "lethal levels" of the sleeping pill methaqualone, Justice of the Peace Mulford Winsor III said Monday.

It appeared to establish that Whiting had taken the overdose after a tiff with Miss Miles.

Noguichi's report, agreeing with the findings of the Maricopa County medical examiner, will be the last evidence submitted Wednesday to a coroner's jury conducting an inquest into the death of Whiting, Winsor said.

Millionaire Loses Case

HOUSTON (UPI) — Millionaire Stanley T. Thomas, acting as his own attorney, told the jury that on Sept. 3 of last year he was driving along this small road that leads to a warehouse owned by another millionaire, C.H. Coffield.

Thomas said his car struck a hole in the road and was damaged. He said it cost him $78.24 to repair the damage. But since it was Coffield's road and Coffield was not keeping it up to driveable standards that Coffield should pay the repair bill.

Coffield refused to pay.

So Thomas sued for $78.24.

The jury ruled against Thomas Monday when Coffield's lawyer pointed out that at the time Thomas was speeding—going 20 miles an hour in a 15-mile-an-hour zone.

Plea Made On Sexual Perversion

Marin Municipal Court Judge Gary W. Thomas ordered Franklin Roosevelt Leyshon, 28, to appear April 27 for preliminary hearing on the felony charge. Despite objections by the district attorney, Thomas reduced Leyshon's bail from $25,000 to $5,000. Leyshon had been held in Marin since his arrest Friday.

Court Decision Sets Leary Trial

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The California Supreme Court gave a go-ahead for drug cultist Timothy Leary's escape trial Monday by denying his request that he be freed from jail.

The high court rejected Leary's argument that he was taken into custody illegally in Afghanistan and that an alleged oral confession could not be used against him.

Leary's trial on charges of escaping from the California Men's Colony in San Luis Obispo, Calif., had been recessed pending the supreme court decision.

Woman, 78, Held In Bank Robbery

PROVO, Utah (UPI) — Police arrested a 78-year-old woman Monday on charges of holding up a local bank for $1,500 after pulling a toy pistol from under her sweater.

Mrs. Geneva G. P. Ball was arrested in an office supply store around the corner from the bank and the loot was recovered, police said.

RECALL

A group called "The Citizens for a Responsive Council" initiated recall of Norville last June, saying he was unresponsive to citizens' concerns, and favored developers over open space needs. The movement halted in July after the council declared an emergency moratorium on residential building on parcels larger than one acre or totaling five lots. But the moratorium didn't affect projects already under way — including the Hahn shopping center, or the controversial Madera del Presidio high density housing project.

The Madera del Presidio development, meanwhile, has been halted by a private citizens' suit through the Environmental Law Fund of Novato Inc., which succeeeded in January.

Larry P. Weingarth and Marilyn Hallin filed the successful suit under which Superior Court Judge Joseph G. Wilson said he will sweep away the town's approval of the bitterly contested housing project.

And last week, James and Marta Sullivan of 26 Mariner Green Drive, Corte Madera, through the San Francisco law firm of Lynn S. Carman, challenged the creation of the Corte Madera Redevelopment Agency — essential to the Hahn shopping center — claiming the city lacks jurisdiction and authority to proceed with the plan.

Further, said Carman, adoption of the redevelopment project's environmental impact plan, "destroys the Sullivans' rights as citizens, taxpayers and residents not to have the community environment eviscerated and damaged by governmental action."

Berkeley Y Hit With Big Suit

OAKLAND (UPI) — The widow of Indian activist Richard Oakes, who was shot to death last year by a YMCA camp caretaker, filed a $1 million damage suit Monday against the Berkeley Y.

Mrs. Ann Oakes said the YMCA was the "proximate" cause of her husband's shooting last Sept. 20 by Michael Morgan, 35, caretaker of a camp in Sonoma County.

Morgan, who said the 30-year-old Oakes attacked him, was acquitted on manslaughter charges last week.

Mrs. Oakes, who said the killing deprived her three children of their father's "comfort, care, protection and support," accused the YMCA of "willful murder.

Chicano Student Treatment Is Hit

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Teachers neglect Chicano students by not calling on them often enough in class, or responding favorably to the childrens' ideas, the U.S. Commission on Civil Rights said Monday.

Based on observations in 430 classrooms at 52 elementary and high schools in California, New Mexico and Texas, Mexican-American children are "practically ignored" by their teachers, a report by the commission said.

Commissioner Manuel Ruiz Jr., a Los Angeles attorney, released the report, the fifth in a series on Mexican-American education.

Boutique Keeps Half A Promise

MUNICH (UPI) — A boutique owner placed advertisements in Munich newspapers saying he would outfit his first five customers from head to foot, provided they showed up nude.

Thirty-eight nude men stormed the newly-opened boutique Monday.

The boutique owner, who said he did not expect even one man to take advantage of the offer, kept his promise and presented the other 33 nudes with pants and socks.

Rescue Unit At Hamilton Phased Out

The 42nd Aerospace Rescue and Recovery Squadron at Hamilton Air Force Base will be deactivated June 15, according to Col. Baylor Haynes, squadron commander.

The function of the 137-member squadron, a coordination center and management unit, will be assumed by the 260-member 41st Aerospace Rescue and Recovery Squadron, a rescue unit, at the base.

Colonel Haynes said the deactivation of the squadron "has nothing to do with whether the base will close or not" and will be undertaken to "reduce costs while still keeping maximum efficiency and minimum overhead."

He said the consolidation had been preprogrammed "to occur when the need for rescue service decreased," and wasn't a surprise.

All personnel of the 42nd squadron will be assumed by the 41st "with the exceptions of those few people in senior management positions and most of these slots will be vacated by normal attrition," Colonel Haynes said.

"There will be no reduction in rescue coverage for civilian and military persons in this region," he said.

Hit-Run Victim Is Satisfactory

A Novato man — the victim of a hit-and-run accident while driving on Highway 101 yesterday — was reported in satisfactory condition today at Marin General Hospital with cuts over his left eye.

Robert A. MacDonald, 19, of 9 Conchita Court, was injured yesterday at 3:20 p.m., according to the California Highway Patrol.

Officers said MacDonald was northbound just south of North San Pedro Road when another auto hit the rear of his, forcing him into a guardrail.

The other car did not stop, officers said.

Cancer Theory To Be Discussed

Ernest T. Krebs Jr., San Francisco biochemist who was the codiscoverer of Laetrile (Vitamin B-17), will discuss his theory that cancer is caused by a lack of the vitamin in Marin on March 30.

Kreps, whose speech is being sponsored by the Marin Chapter of the International Association of Cancer Victims and Friends, will speak at 7:45 p.m. at the Pacific Gas and Electric Co. building, Third and Brooks Streets, San Rafael.

The association is pushing for a legal testing of Laetrile as a cancer treatment, according to the chairman pro tem, Jay Hutchinson.

Parent-Teacher Sessions Backed

The Lagunitas School District board last night approved a request by teachers to meet with parents to get their help in overcoming problems in teaching.

Anna Mae Kondratieff, business manager and district secretary, said teachers told the board they thought parents could aid them in teaching elective subjects and in improving school facilities, such as building a new stage at Lagunitas School.

The meeting is scheduled for April 4. Time and place will be announced, Mrs. Kondratieff said.

Candidate Lunch

A brown bag luncheon for Lotte Schiller, candidate for the Tamalpais High School District board, will be given tomorrow at noon at the home of Joan Sestak, 359 Wilson Way, Larkspur.

FBI

used doctrine of "executive privilege," whereby a President has declined to permit subordinates to be questioned by congressional committees on their official confidential dealings with him.

Tunney has been one of the most critical questioners of Gray and one of the most insistent Judiciary Committee members in demanding that Dean testify about FBI documents on the Watergate bugging case that Gray allowed Dean to study.

Nixon's refusal to allow Dean to appear has been interpreted in some quarters as indicating he would sacrifice Gray's nomination if necessary rather than relax his position on executive privilege.

The fight has centered around the FBI's handling of the investigation into last year's Watergate political espionage case, which linked participants in the burglary and wiretapping of Democratic National Headquarters to members of the White House staff.

On Monday, two senators, Birch Bayh, D-Ind., and Lowell P. Weicker, R-Conn., said they were refused access to the documents which Gray originally offered to all Senate members to prove the FBI's Watergate probe was complete and free of White House interference.

The order was issued by the Justice Department, and Attorney General Richard G. Kleindienst said viewing of the FBI's "raw" files would be permitted by only a few select senators and two lawyers hired by a special Senate panel which will conduct a probe of 1972 political espionage.

Nixon at a news conference last week strongly criticized Gray for giving the "raw" files to the Judiciary Committee.

Fund From Ice Cream Sales To Aid Projects

Ice cream money will be used to provide the Mill Valley Middle School with materials for a fence and bicycle enclosure, according to Nona Dennis, chairman of the school's outdoor environment committee.

Some $1,100, collected by the Middle School Student Council from ice cream sales, has been given to the committee to embark on a series of important projects for which district funds are not available, she said.

With labor donated by students and supervised by faculty and parents, the committee hopes to build a bicycle enclosure and a fence separating the school's playground from a nearby creek.

The committee already has sponsored a half-day creek cleanup which resulted in collection of a debris box full of trash.

Future projects will provide drinking fountains, campus benches and an ecology garden, according to Mrs. Dennis.

Chrysler Hikes '73 Car Prices

DETROIT (UPI) — Chrysler Corp. broke the "follow the leader" tradition Monday and announced a price increase on 1973-model cars and trucks a few hours after General Motors said it would freeze 1973 prices.

General Motors Chairman Richard C. Gerstenberg said the world's largest automaker would not increase prices "unless forced to by major economic events," but indicated the introduction of 1974 models would bring price hikes.

A short time later, Chrysler, the third-largest automaker, announced an average $42 increase, effective April 2, in the suggested retail price of its 1973 model cars. The average truck increase was $46.

Ford and American Motors had no comment on Monday's actions.

TENDER TONSORIAL TUG

Sgt. Don A. MacPhail of Chelmsford, Mass., a former prisoner of war, greeted his brother Scott, 19, with a gentle tug on Scott's long locks after seeing him for the first time in five years. The photographer who took the photo from 250 feet away with a telephoto lens said the tug appeared to be a joyous gesture of greeting. MacPhail and four other prisoners arrived in Phoenixville, Pa., yesterday and were greeted by families and friends.

Tam Board Leery Of New Course

Tamalpais High School District trustees, still stinging over a flap caused by an English exam at Sir Francis Drake High School, last night took a leery look at a new course proposed for the same school.

The course proposed by the social studies department was labeled "anti-democratic trends in 20th Century America," but it was not so much plans for studying both far left and right movements in America that disturbed trustees.

Rather, according to administrative assistant Edward J. Neumeier, board members objected mainly to a sentence in a paragraph describing major activities planned for the course.

In addition to lectures, reports, discussion, exams and other customary academic exercises, the proposal said, the course would include "with some imagination, even other things."

Just what the "other things" would be was not explained, but Trustees Bette Wallace and Jerrold M. Ladar especially criticized the vagueness of the proposal, citing the "community's intolerance toward that kind of looseness," Neumeier said.

In addition, trustees disliked another sentence in the section describing materials to be used in the proposed course.

Such materials as texts and supplemental texts would be changed to keep up with the times, according to the proposal, and "other materials (reproduced essays, pictures, films, speakers, etc.) would vary every time the course is taught.

The board sent the proposed course back to Drake's social studies department, asking more explicit expanation of what is planned.

Last month something of a furor arose over an English test at Drake, which called upon students to examine attitudes of a writer describing sexual activities at a party.

Members of the English faculty defended the test as aimed at boosting a student's control of the language, but some parents objected to a general lack of emphasis on the fundamentals of spelling and grammar at the high school.

In other action last night, trustees approved a sex education symposium set for April 28 and planned by a citizens' advisory committee. The committee's proposal was made after a lengthy study following a fuss last year over sex education units in freshman world history courses at Redwood High School.

Tamalpais High School Board Also:

STULL BILL — Postponed until a meeting at 8 p.m. Monday discussion of how the district's three schools are using Stull Bill guidelines in assessing performance of teachers and administrators.

SHORT — Took no action on a proposal to grant partial credit for courses less than a semester in length.

WOMEN — Heard a request that the district's Women's Task Force receive official recognition as an advisory group in matters of hiring and "problems of sexual stereotyping" in the district. The proposal will be reviewed again at the April 2 meeting.

COURSES — Approved new courses for Sir Francis Drake High School, including a new voter course, school government and local government, reform and protest movements in American history, organic chemistry, nuclear chemistry, nuclear chemistry, history of art and weaving and batik.

ROOF — Accepted roofing work on the Redwood High School gymnasium performed by the Bishop Roofing Co. of San Rafael.

ALL-PURPOSE PHONE NUMBER IN SAUSALITO

An all-purpose telephone number for police, fire and ambulance service has been established in Sausalito, police Chief James D. Wright has announced.

Callers dialing the new number — 332-1121 — will reach a police dispatcher who will connect them with the service they request.

Two new numbers for nonemergency calls to police are 332-3752 and 332-5019, Wright said.

"It's the next best thing to 911 (the emergency number used in other cities)," said Wright. "We couldn't get that number."

Wright said callers dialing the old police number — 332-1231 — will be connected with the emergency line. Eventually, after citizens become accustomed to the new number, the old line will be dropped.

The switchover to the new system was completed yesterday, said Wright.

Skiers Seeking New Tam School Vacation

If skiers in the Tamalpais High School District have their way, a new vacation period will be added to the district's calendar next year.

Proposed is a "spring holiday" in February which would be made up of Lincoln's and Washington's birthdays, plus three days stolen from the traditional two-week Christmas holiday.

The total number of vacation days during the year would remain the same, according to administrative assistant Edward J. Neumeier who said the proposal had won favor with skiers and teachers "who probably just wanted a break."

The district board will consider the proposal, along with a suggestion to leave the vacation schedule in the traditional manner, at the April 2 meeting.

Budget For San Rafael Library Set

The San Rafael Library board last night approved budget requests totaling $226,989 for fiscal 1973-74.

The total is $2,434 above the present year's budget. It does not include any over-all salary raise for library employees, this being subject to negotiation between employees and the city council.

Also not included are funds for a special election on a bond issue for library expansion, which the board hopes to hold in October. Election costs would be in the city clerk's budget.

Savings from this year were made in employee salaries and contract services — the former through replacement of a librarian II with a library assistant at lower salary, and the latter since the fee for preparing preliminary plans for library expansion, to be paid architects Enomoto and Ring, is an extra this year. Rises in other categories reflected inflation in costs.

Board member Ella May Minneman was absent from the meeting because of illness.

Ross Teachers Ask Healthy Pay Boost

Ross School District teachers asked the district board last night for a 10.8 per cent pay increase and other benefits that would cost the district about $46,000 for 1973-74.

Supt. Thomas A. Anderson said the requests, made by the Ross School District Teachers Association salary committee, are to be taken up at the board's next regular session on April 16.

According to figures supplied by the teachers, the 10.8 per cent increase, in addition to regular pay increments, would raise the salary range of the district's 27 certificated employees from $7,4000-to-$14,948 annually to $8,200-to-$16,564.

Anderson said the teachers' salary group broke down the 10.8 per cent thus: 4.5 per cent for general improvement of the salary schedule in order to stay with other Marin school districts, 4.4 per cent for cost of living and 1.9 per cent for the "special cost of living in Marin County."

Annual cost of the pay increases, other than increments, would be about $37,000, according to teacher estimates.

Anderson said the salary committee also asked that the board employ teacher aides in such areas as mathematics, science, foreign language, physical education and art. Annual cost of that program was placed by the teachers at $8,000.

The final request sought medical insurance for retired teachers at an estimated cost of $150 per year.

In other business, the board scheduled for an adjourned meeting next Tuesday appointment of a staff-citizens committee to help prepare an application for about $26,000 in state funds for a modified kindergarten-third grade curriculum.

It was indicated a full citizens advisory committee to the board — a matter which has been under discussion for several months — may evolve from the staff-citizens group at a later time.

San Rafael Candidates' Night Is Set

All six candidates for election to the San Rafael City Council have accepted invitations to appear at a candidates' night at 8 p.m. tomorrow at the Peacock Gap Country Club, Mary Carpou, secretary of the Peacock Gap Homeowners Association, said today.

The event, which will mark the first public discussion among the six candidates, will be moderated by association president Norman P. Higby, she said.

Each candidate will be allowed 10 minutes to speak on what he will do if elected to the city council. The speeches will be followed by a question and answer period.

The country club, located at 333 Biscayne Drive, can accommodate 300 persons, Mrs. Carpou said.

Vying for two vacant seats on the San Rafael City Council are incumbent Lawrence E. Mulryan; Thomas R. O'Toole, chairman of the city planning commission; Jack G. Nixon, chairman of the county planning commission; Carl J. (Red) Brown, athletic director of Sir Francis Drake High School; Leo Tinkler, a real estate broker, and Richard C. Fox, a research chemist.

$15,530 Grant To Marin Senior Citizens Group

The California Commission on Aging has announced it has approved a $15,530 grant to the Marin Senior Coordinating Council.

Together with $11,775 in local matching funds and services, the money will be used to develop comprehensive services for senior citizens and to assist other community agencies in utilizing their resources to better meet the needs of senior citizens, according to William J. Kurtz of the Office of Special Services.

The grant is part of $220,000 recently approved by the commission on aging under Title III of the Older Americans Act of 1965.

Grants provide for adult education, employment and housing assistance, leisure activities and health services, Kurtz said.

Man Found Dead In Hotel Room

A San Rafael man was found dead in his hotel room yesterday by his son who had not seen him for a week.

Allen Clinton Kenner, 51, was on the bed of his unlocked room at 2:40 p.m. when found by his son, Kirk Lyon Kenner, 18, of 105 Birch Street, Corte Madera.

According to Keith C. Craig, coroner's investigator, Kenner had been hospitalized two months ago with a heart attack. He had a history of heart trouble.

An autopsy was scheduled.

Jury Delivers Guilty Verdict

A superior court jury yesterday found a 28-year-old Missouri man guilty of burglary in a December break-in at the Community Action of Marin office in San Rafael.

The jury was out three hours following the trial of Marvin Ellis Otey in the court of Judge Charles Read Best.

Otey was ordered to return to court April 9 for sentencing.

Markets Are Robbed At Gunpoint

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Three grocery stores were held up here at gunpoint by Chinese-speaking youths in the space of 14 hours and police believe the thieves are the same who robbed a Chinese restaurant last week.

Four masked bandits were waiting inside Chinatown's DuPont Market when employees arrived for work yesterday morning, patrolman Dave Utter said.

The workers, and a state meat inspector who happened by, were forced to wait in a walk-in freezer while the youths, who reportedly conversed in Cantonese, made off with about $2,100 from their victims and the cash register.

The chilly crew was freed two hours later by Fred Crikos, a duck salesman from Petaluma.

Two more grocery stores were held up within about 20 minutes of one another, the first by four masked youths, the second by three. Both robberies netted about $100, Utter said.

Novatan Found Dead In Garage

Mark S. Rudolph, 24, of 35 Gustafson Court, Novato, was discovered dead of carbon monoxide poisoning yesterday in his car in his garage.

Deputy Coroner Donald L. Cornish said a vacuum cleaner hose and garden hose attachment had been run into the car from the exhaust pipe and that Rudolph had left a suicide note in his living room.

Novato police reported that Rudolph was discovered at 2:30 p.m. by his brother, Jerry Alan Rudolph of 19 Jade Court, Apt. 4, Novato who heard the car engine running in the garage.

Officers estimated that Rudolph had been dead about three to four hours. Rudolph reportedly was depressed because he and his wife, Judy, had separated, police said.

Radio Net Requested By Sheriff

I-J Special Report

SANTA ROSA — Sonoma County Sheriff Donald Striepeke yesterday asked the board of supervisors to allocate $104,000 for a new countywide communication system.

Striepeke said the present system is inadequate for the needs of the county and in the event of a major natural disaster such as an earthquake, law enforcement could be paralyzed within minutes.

Striepeke said the system is unreliable and dangerous for deputies in the field because of breakdowns, cluttered channels and dead areas the radio cannot reach.

He said the new equipment would include a basic console for the sheriff's department and mobile radio units. Striepeke asked the supervisors to consider financing the project when it considers uses for federal revenue sharing funds.

Dual Session Of Larkspur Council Slated

The Larkspur City Council will meet at city hall tomorrow in two stages — first, at 7:30 p.m. as the Larkspur Redevelopment Agency, then later, at 8:30 p.m. as the city council.

The Redevelopment Agency will interview financial consultants for its proposed redevelopment project in closed session, and then in public adopt bylaws for agency meetings.

The council agenda includes extending the city's building moratorium on territory east of Highway 101, downtown tree planting, and an appointment to the Human Rights Commission.

Parking Meter Rate Hike Set

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The Board of Supervisors voted Monday to increase parking meter rates in downtown San Francisco.

The maximum parking time now will be 30 minutes for 25 cents.

Meters in the area previously had varying rates—from 10 cents for an hour to 10 cents for 15 minutes.

Will Resign Post

NEW YORK (UPI) — New York Police Commissioner Patrick V. Murphy will quit his post by the end of the year, he said Monday.

Wagner Nominated

NEW YORK (UPI) — New York's Liberal Party has nominated Robert F. Wagner, a former three-term mayor, as its candidate for the job this year.

BIRTHDAY QUIZ

1. OZZIE NELSON may celebrate his 66th birthday today by skindiving off Laguna Beach, California, near his home. A former Eagle Scout and star football athlete, he was a band leader in the 1930's, married his vocalist, and for the next 22 years they made their family famous on radio and TV. Everybody remembers this couple's children from "The Adventures of Ozzie and Harriet": (A) Ricky; (B) David; (C) Rob.

2. CARL REINER, 51 today, grew up in the Bronx, New York, with ambitions to become an actor. He started on Broadway in 1947 and went to television in 1950, appearing as a comedian on Sid Caesar's "Show of Shows" and later as the emcee on "Keep Talking." In recent years he has specialized in writing and producing ("The Dick Van Dyke Show") while his son has started to make a name for himself as an actor in "All in the Family." The son's first name is (A) Ricky; (B) David; (C) Rob.

3. MICHAEL REDGRAVE, English-born actor, is 67 today. The Queen recognized his talent in 1959 by making him a knight, which surprised no one because he had been playing a noble gentleman or king in Shakespearean plays for 25 years. He married Rachel Kempson in 1935 and two of their children are well known film stars today: (A) Vanessa; (B) Lynn; (C) Edgar.

4. EDGAR BUCHANAN, 70 today, is that gravel-voiced old timer everyone remembers on television's "Petticoat Junction." Last season he joined Glenn Ford as a deputy sheriff in "Cade's County." Altogether, a pretty successful career for a man who gave up dentistry for acting. He and his wife Mildred have a son:(A) Van; (B) Lynn; (C) Edgar.

CLUB ACTION

West led the king of clubs. East overtook with the ace of clubs to return his small club. West won the second trick with the nine of clubs and then led the queen of clubs.

It was clear that East was out of clubs. If declarer ruffed in dummy with a low trump, East would have an easy chance to overruff. That's what South meant when he talked about not sending a boy to do a man's work. He ruffed with dummy's highest trump in an effort to shut out the overruff.

CONTRACT SET ONE

The attempt failed. East was able to overruff with the jack of spades. He got a diamond trick later on when declarer took a finesse. The contract was thus set one trick.

There was a sure way to stop the overruff, but South didn't see it. The correct play is to discard a diamond from dummy on the third round of clubs. (Never send a boy or a man to do the wrong job.)

THIRD TRICK

This gives the enemy a third club trick but robs them of a diamond trick. No matter what West does at the fourth trick, South can gain the lead and draw trumps. Then he can take the top diamonds and ruff his last diamond in the dummy.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens the bidding with one spade, and the next player passes.

You hold:
♠ - J 9 4
♥ - Q J 8 4 3
♦ - Q 10 9
♣ - A 6.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid two hearts.

Your hand is too good for a raise to two spades, but not strong enough for a jump to three spades. The best course is to bid a new suit and raise the spades at your next turn.

Tompkins Subdivision Is Approved

The San Anselmo Planning Commission last night approved a tentative map for a four-lot subdivision at 52 Park Way, the site of one of the oldest homes in the city.

The proposal by Jack Barone to subdivide the 1.6-acre parcel, site of the Tompkins estate, will leave untouched the century-old Tompkins mansion, according to Daniel W. Thomas, planning technician.

Thomas said commissioners approved the subdivision after ordering an oval driveway removed from the plans since it encroached on the 7,500-square-foot minimum lot size. Final map for the proposal is due within a year, he added.

Commissioner John Levo Jr. opposed his colleagues' action, urging the parcel be divided into only three lots, Thomas said.

The San Anselmo Planning Commission also:

SIR FRANCIS DRAKE — Referred back to applicant James Cook for redesign a request for side and frontyard variances for a house at 28 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard.

MORATORIUM — Said use permits under the city's building moratorium — now required for development of undeveloped lots — will also be needed for improvement of any lot that has the potential of being subdivided.

USE PERMITS — Approved permits for an auto repair shop at 10 Greenfield Avenue and a creative drama studio in a residence at 70 Monterey Aveune, and denied a permit for a single-family home proposed by Donald de Vaughn at Cherne Lane and Idlewood Drive.

VARIANCES — Denied variance requests by George Kokalis for a frontyard setback at 1598 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, and by John Blackwell to construct a garage at 149 Scenic Avenue.

ELLIOTT — Approved a request by San Anselmo School District Supt. Frank R. Elliott for a rearyard setback variance needed to retain a deck he had already constructed at 37 Oak Springs Drive.

ADJOURNMENT — Adjourned to 8 p.m. April 2.

Belvedere Planners Give Nod On Housing

A housing element to the as-yet nonexistent Belvedere general plan was approved last night by the Belvedere Planning Commission.

According to City Mgr. William A. Cavalli, planning commissioners recommended that the city council approve the element. The council will hold a hearing on the matter April 2, he said.

Commissioners also studied an element combining open space, parks and recreation and conservation, and decided to break it up for further analysis.

They asked a citizens 'open space committee to study the open space aspect, the parks and recreation commission to investigate the parks angle and the Belvedere-Tiburon Committee for the Environment to look into the conservation element.

The three groups will report their findings and recommendations to the planning commission, which will pass them on to the city council, Cavalli said.

Root Beer Stand Robbery Victim

An armed robber made off with two hamburgers and $90 in cash from A and W Root Beer in Rohnert Park Sunday night.

Police said the young man ordered the hamburgers from waitress Melinda Sue Landsowne, 18, at the counter. When she delivered the order the man pointed a pistol at her and demanded cash from the register.

Witnesses said he fled on foot behind the Rohnert Park Shopping Center. He was described as five feet seven inches tall, 180 pounds with light brown hair partially sunbleached. He was wearing blue jeans and a blue jacket.

Pleas Are Changed In TV Thefts

Two former San Anselmo police officers and a companion from Fairfax yesterday pleaded guilty of second degree burglary after withdrawing innocent pleas before Superior Court Judge Charles Read Best.

Warren Thomas Osborne of Fairfax, former Sgt. Edwin Souza Silvia and former reserve officer Eugene Charles Saporetti each admitted breaking into the Sears-Roebuck store in the Redhill Shopping Center in San Anselmo the night of Dec. 10 and taking nine television sets valued at $1,223.

Judge Best ordered the three to return to his court at 4 p.m. May 14 for presentation of probation reports and sentencing. The judge said maximum sentence on the charge could be one to 15 years in state prison or one year in county jail.

The judge indicated that a lengthy conference with the three defense attorneys and two deputy district attorneys in his chambers earlier yesterday resulted in the decision for the three to change their plea to guilty. Yesterday's court appearance originally was scheduled for argument of about 10 defense motions, including one for change of venue.

Funeral For Victims Of Slaying Thursday

Funeral for three members of a family found slain outside their burning Mill Valley home Friday has been scheduled for Thursday.

Services for Melvin J. Schallock, 61; his wife, Ruth, 56, and their son, Daniel, 19, will be held at 11 a.m. at the Mill Valley Methodist Church.

Thursday's funeral will be conducted by Mill Valley Lodge 356, Free and Accepted Masons, of which the elder Schallock, an Oakland food broker and a reserve Mill Valley police officer, was a member.

Burial will be in Mount Tamalpais Cemetery, San Rafael.

Survivors include two of the Schallock's other sons, William and David; Melvin Schallock's brother, Arthur, a former New York Yankee baseball pitcher; Mrs. Schallock's brother, Walter Derr Jr. of Larkspur, and her two sisters, Alyce Ryan of Nevada City and Julia Bulasky of Beverly Hills.

Bedayan, a former lifeguard and grocery store clerk who lived in a rented room in Mill Valley, pleaded innocent yesterday to the slayings.

Dist. Atty. Bruce B. Bales said today he is awaiting the results of evidence tests by state investigators in Sacramento before seeking grand jury indictment.

Name Of Youth Nabbed Sunday

Two lines of type dropped from a story in yesterday's Independent-Journal garbled the identity of one of two San Anselmo youths arrested Sunday following an apparent attempted burglary at the Stop and Go market, 807 San Anselmo Avenue.

Dropped from the article were the name and address of Paul Joseph Williams, 19, of 301 Greenfield Avenue, who was booked into Marin County Jail on suspicion of resisting arrest and released on $500 bail to appear Thursday in Marin Municipal Court.

Another youth, Michael Edward Bernardi, 18, of 86 Valley Road, was arrested on suspicion of attempted burglary following the incident, which police said involved breaking an outside fus box at the market, possibly in expectation of taking goods amid the confusion.

Bernardi, held on $1,000 bail, was to appear yesterday in Marin Municipal Court, and not Marin County Jail as the dropped lines made it appear.

Call Made For Reviving Vigilantes

The murder of three members of a Mill Valley family Friday has prompted a San Rafael man to call for reviving the Committee of Vigilance, a San Francisco vigilante group active in the 1850s.

"How much longer will we Californians take a stand of apathy while murderers and thieves run rampant?" asks William R. Spangenberg of 195 Nova Albion Way in a letter to the Independent-Journal.

"The time has come" again to organize vigilantes, as San Franciscans did in 1851, according to Spangenberg. "The police are either unable or unwilling to protect our lives and property."

If residents are not to "cower into our homes or apartments and double the locks," we must "arm the law-abiding citizens and set up schedules of armed patrols for every neighborhood," Spangenberg said.

Greens Damaged At Golf Course

Vandals did an estimated $4,000 damage to six greens of the Meadow Club Golf Course last Saturday or early Sunday, sheriff's deputies said yesterday.

The second through seventh greens were gouged up with sandtrap rakes, the flagpoles in the cups were bent, tee markers removed from adjacent driving areas, and other damage was done, investigators found.

Windows of the club's maintenance building were smashed and all the equipment inside was left is disarray, deputies said. Nothing was reported stolen.

College Program To Eye Chaucer

"Chaucer and the Decline of Medieval Allegory" will be explored by College of Marin English instructor Peter Sherkey in the college's Humanities Colloquia series Friday at 7:30 p.m. in room 165 of Harlan Center.

English instructor Maurice Hunt will present another free public program in the series: "The Backward Voice: Shakespeare's Attitude Toward Speech in "The Winter's Tale" and "The Tempest"," on April 27 at 7:30 p.m. in room 165, Harlan Center.

Man Admits Charge Of Auto Theft

Richard K. Papke, 20, of San Francisco, yesterday pleaded guilty to a misdemeanor count of auto theft, resulting from his arrest Feb. 23 by Sausalito police. He was driving a car he had taken without permission from a San Francisco couple he had met while hitchhiking the day before.

Appearing before Municipal Court Judge Gary W. Thomas, Papke withdrew his earlier plea of innocent to a count of felony auto theft, and Thomas sentenced him to time already served in Marin County Jail while awaiting trial.

The public defender's office explained that Papke was due to be picked up by the California Youth Authority because the arrest resulted in a violation of his parole for an earlier offense.

Kirchem Lists Coffee Dates

Allan J. Kirchem, candidate for election to the Lagunitas School District board, has reported that dates for campaign coffees listed in yesterday's Independent-Journal are in error.

The correct dates are: 7:30 p.m. March 27 at the Robert Taverna home on Salix Avenue and 7:30 p.m. March 29 at the Charles W. Mathis home, 242 Railroad Avenue.

No Event Set

The Independent-Journal erred Saturday in reporting a campaign coffee for Gloria Riccardi, Kentfield School District board candidate, had been scheduled tomorrow at the Kay Butler home, 62 Upper Briar Road, Kentfield. No such event was arranged.

County And City On Collision Course

It looks like the City of San Rafael and the County of Marin are headed for a showdown in court over redevelopment.

The city council last week sent a counter-proposal to the county board of supervisors which made the court contest appear almost inevitable by eliminating county veto powers over projects to be undertaken by the city with redevelopment funds. The county has insisted on the veto power.

The city council has gone a long way in trying to accommodate objections from other jurisdictions and still keep its redevelopment program feasible. From the tenor of its latest counter-proposal, it has decided that it will go no farther.

WE HATE TO SEE city and county both spending our tax money to fight each other in court over this matter. And we would like to point out a few facts:

1. The City of San Rafael acted under a 20-year-old provision of the state constitution and accompanying statutes in setting up its redevelopment agency. The constitutional amendment, which was approved by the electorate in 1952, permits earmarking the increase in assessed valuation from a redevelopment area for public projects that will aid its redevelopment. Both it and the statutes have been upheld in a lengthy series of court decisions.

2. Creation of the redevelopment area does not take from the county or school districts one penny of assessed valuation that they now tax. It "freezes" the assessed valuation in that area at the present level for all public agencies, including the city. Any increase in assessed value in the redevelopment area is taxed at the same rate, but that part of tax revenues coming from the increase goes to pay for redevelopment.

3. The constitutional provision and accompanying laws give the county no veto power over what the city does, nor any say in the matter. California law recognizes cities as autonomous entities; they are not mere subdivisions of counties. (This is something the Marin County Board of Supervisors never seems able to understand.)

4. All figures put out by the county auditor, by the school districts or anyone else on how much future revenue would be "lost" to county and districts because of redevelopment are mythical figures. They are based on assumptions that improvements would continue within the redevelopment area without special effort by the city — assumptions which the city council does not believe to be true. If it did believe them true, it would never have gone into redevelopment at all.

COUNTY intervention, and the filing of court suits, has resulted principally because of two men in county government: Supervisor Arnold M. Baptiste and County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney. It has appeared, during the 10 months of dispute, that the non-elective county counsel has been making policy for the board of supervisors. If this is so, he has overstepped the bounds of his office (which, incidentally, can be abolished by ordinance).

While some of the projects proposed to be undertaken as redevelopment in Larkspur and Corte Madera may be attacked as benefitting only certain lage developers, this is not true of those proposed in San Rafael. The San Rafael City Council is trying to restore a downtown that was blighted largely by the county's moving its courthouse away.

Reagan Discovers 'Purity' In Appointments Backfires

By EARL G. WATERS

When he was campaigning for the office of governor, Ronald Reagan was most critical of the methods by which judges are selected. It was Reagan's contention that too many were being chosen on the basis of their political connections rather than judicial qualifications. It was, he charged, cronyism.

At the time he was disturbed, as were many others, by decisions being handed down which seemed to favor the rights of criminals over those of the victims, and by the tendency of the courts to legislate the law rather than rule upon it.

In his speeches Reagan gave vent to his dissatisfaction with the courts and vowed that he, as governor, would put only "qualified" men on the bench. He was also strong in his views as to what kind of decisions he would expect of his appointees. It was obvious that he wanted "strict constructionists" who would stand "foursquare for law and order." It was also quite evident he believed vehemently in the death penalty.

REAGAN CAME INTO office advocating a law which would delegate authority to the Bar Association in the selection of judges. He would willingly have given up some of the governor's power in such appointments. The legislature rebuffed his suggestions.

Stuck with the responsibility, Reagan nevertheless embarked upon a sincere effort to keep faith with his ideas. He rejected political applicants and insisted that judicial candidates be picked on merit. Cronyism was out!

Applicants for the lower courts would be rated as lawyers by the State Bar. Those for the higher courts would be chosen after reviewing their decisions. It was a scholarly approach which attached sole importance to grades and examination papers and left nothing for the human element.

It was this pristine method of selection which put Donald R. Wright on the appellate court in 1968 and elevated him to chief justice of the state Supreme Court in 1970. It is not surprising then that Reagan did not personally know Wright prior to his appellate appointment and, in view of subsequent events, not much better when he named him chief justice.

FROM THE DECISIONS by the court since Wright became chief justice, particularly that outlawing of the death penalty written by Wright himself, one need not be clairvoyant to believe Reagan is having second thoughts about how judges should be selected.

And the treatment by Wright of Reagan's only other Supreme Court appointee, William P. Clark Jr., was hardly to be expeted from one who owed so much to Reagan. No one can accuse Wright of being a "team player."

Neither Atty. Gen. Evelle Younger, elected to office, nor Presiding Justice Parker Wood, appointed by Governors Culbert L. Olson and Edmund G. Brown, owed any debt to Reagan. But they voted for Clark, while it was Wright who subjected him to the hippodrome ordeal of a public hearing by the judicial commission. And despite no evidence more damaging than Clark's schoolboy grades, Wright still voted against him

One can hardly blame Reagan if he abandons his "merit" system in favor of closer contact which permits measuring a man's human qualifications.

"Let's see now, Abigail, how did this thing used to work?"

WORTH SAYING AGAIN

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Wonders What Became On Earlier Experiment

Reading the article, "Marin Trying Out New Act on Decriminalizing Drug Offenders," brought back memories of other experiments conducted by our Marin County judicial system.

I specifically recall an article several years ago, where a member of our local justice department directed that bailiffs of his court not be armed. Seems he felt that guns brought poor taste to his courtroom. Of course, that was prior to Judge Haley being shot. I have wondered several times, since the "Marin County Civic Center shoot-out," what that judge's name was. Will we ever know what conclusion he has drawn from his experimentation? Any more new, progressive ideas, fellas?

County Installing Raised Center Markers

This letter is in response to a recent correspondence regarding the installation of raised pavement markers on roadways in Marin County. We certainly agree with H. C. Johnson (letter, March 2) that reflective pavement markers provide a most effective method of promoting traffic safety. We feel they are particularly effective during rainy weather and on rural roads which are narrow and unlighted.

Two years ago the County Department of Public Works began a yearly program providing for the installation of the raised markers on a continuing basis. To date, we have completed about 18 miles of marker installation at a cost of around $14,000. We intend to budget about $5,000 per year for the continued installation. In addition to this program, we are working with all the cities in the county on a contract which will install about 20 more miles this spring in the urban areas. This contract will cost about $55,000 and is funded almost entirely with federal funds.

We wish to thank H. C. Johnson for his interest in what we also consider a most important aspect of our work.

Keep Juveniles Here, But Not As Criminals

Re your editorial on "Juvenile Crime 'Solution' Doubtful" of March 3, your doubt appears to be that Marin County can provide care for "those individuals with long records of misbehavior or who commit capital crimes".

I propose that we can and should IF the necessary care is provided before rather than after the long records are established or the capital crimes committed. An examination of the records of those committed to California Youth Authority "prisons" shows many DEW (distant early warning) signals which were either ignored or improperly assessed and treated by the governmental agencies responsible — or not reported because of a lack of parental effectiveness and/or understanding of community help systems available.

For juvenile offenders there is available in Marin a variety of facilities — the children's treatment center operated by the probation department, the group homes provided by Marin Foundation, the residential and day treatment programs sponsored by Sunny Hills. The Community Mental Health Services Department also provides some services and efforts are being made to expand this part of their program to both juvenile offenders and their parents . . .

The here and now problems are priority and money. Will the county/state/federal governments give priority to early intervention and appropriate treatment of juvenile offenders and back this up with the funds required to do the job? If so, I'm all for it . . .

Fears Centers' Impact On Muddled Traffic

It seems that no one has rationally considered the effects of a "regional shopping center" — either in Corte Madera or Larkpsur — on pure, simple traffic pressure. 101, in its present state, still shows that 20-30 years ago it had stoplights and drawbridges. Whoever — or whichever succession of people — designed the series of interchanges and entrances from Corte Madera through Greenbrae must have been sadistic in the extreme. I defy any driver to head north to San Rafael out of the Lucky Drive approach, almost any time of day, without experiencing sheer panic . . . I had occasion to go to Marin General Hospital the day 101 flooded and traffic was being rerouted via Bon Air Road. Good thing I wasn't an emergency — I'd have expired miles back on Sir Francis Drake. I wonder how many patients in crisis — mothers delivering — or other such — waited while their doctors were stuck somewhere under way — as we all were who were idiots enough to go out that day.

Traffic patterns — both freeway and non-freeway — being what they are, how can either of these cities contemplate a shopping center and blithely ignore its certain effect upon traffic volume? Imagine the stores closing at 5 and all us Marinite matrons joining the rush home. Have an aspirin, Clyde.

The picture in the I-J of the trestle east of Greenbrae, spanning two narrow East Sir Francis Drake lanes which the state isn't even considering widening until 1979 — or was it 1984? — says it all. If what little Mr. Cooke had to say in his EIR on the Hahn center about traffic effect is indicative, then it's pointless to spend money on EIRs. Who asks Marin County transit planners? Who asks the GG Bridge district? Who asks the State Highway Department? . . .

Larkspur and Corte Madera will certainly emerge triumphantly as cities with individuality, yessir! It'll be because nobody can get into or out of them.

THE NEEDLE

By HAROLD COFFIN

Today is when Mother Nature wakes from her winter nap to start flirting with Father Time.

In the spring a young man's fancy turns to thoughts of love — while the older fellows just sit there contemplating the Vernal Equinox.

Spring fever settles in a young fellow's heart. With an older guy it's mostly in his head.

Nixon Has Overwhelming Support In No-Amnesty Stand

WASHINGTON — On the highly emotional issue of amnesty for draft evaders, President Nixon has overwhelming support for his adamant refusal to compromise. No poll is required to show how deep the feeling runs.

In response to a column suggesting that in accord with precedent a way might be found to allow the evaders who fled abroad to be rehabilitated, letters have come from around the country. By as much as three to one they take a stern stand against any compromise. Those who fled must pay the penalty under the law.

THANK GOODNESS, we have a strong President and not a weak one, a woman writes from Pennsylvania. She goes on:

"My youngest son went when his country called, as his father and I taught him, 'God and country first.' He lay in hospitals overseas for four months and then came home for two more operations. Yes, he is fine now, but will always carry the wounds of war with him. Nevertheless, we are very proud of him, but had he chosen to turn his back on country and family he would be dead as far as we, his parents, would be concerned."

From Kentucky a reader writes, challenging any precedent in the amnesty granted by Lincoln for the Confederate forces at the end of the Civil War:

"My people were Kentucky Unionists but would have resented, even as I do, your comparison of amnesty for the South with amnesty for the yellow so-and-sos who cut and run for Canada and elsewhere when faced with duty to their country. The southerners did not take off for parts unknown but stayed to fight for what they thought was right."

OTHERS REACTED differently. A woman reader in San Diego, who lost a son in Vietnam, phoned to ask how she could help persuade the President to modify his stand against any compromise. And she said she spoke for a friend who had also lost a son.

A letter from a reader in Buffalo endorsed the statement in my column that a way must be found to insure that the thousands of young who fled shall not forever be barred from the United States or returned to face the certainty of long prison terms. He wrote:

"What I can't understand is the utter vindictiveness of President Nixon who occasionally speaks of himself as a birthright Quaker. Although I'm not a Quaker and had only the slightest contacts with any, I was born in Philadelphia, the most historic city in the country. From early grades in school we learned to respect William Penn. Further, President Hoover always seemed to me to be honest and forthright, but I've seen a few news accounts in which Philadelphia Quakers questioned the standing of Mr. Nixon."

AS HAPPENS after every war, the deep hatreds, the passions boiling beneath the surface do not subside with the stroke of the pen that ends the war. They are, as we see today, a powerful force and, unhappily as history has shown, they nourish the seeds of yet another war.

The return of the American prisoners from North Vietnam is the occasion for an emotional outpouring which is hardly surprising. Whether the homecoming is carefully stage-managed by the military, as has been reported, or not, no one can begrudge these courageous men who endured so much the rewards of freedom after in some instances six and seven years of imprisonment.

But inasmuch as the fervent outpouring shown on the nation's television screens contributes to unthinking patriotism, and conversely to hatred of the enemy, it can be self-defeating for the basic postwar policy of the administration. When he returned from his mission to Hanoi, Henry A. Kissinger, the President's adviser on national security, made an eloquent plea for rehabilitation of North Vietnam with American help. As he pointed out, the North Vietnamese leaders have known nothing but war. To encourage them to participate in a peaceful world should be a major objectve of American policy.

If reports out of Saigon of the continuing large-scale movement of weapons down the Ho Chi Minh trail are true, these leaders seem unwilling to learn the lesson of peace. But if administration policy fails — and Congress now seems unlikely to vote any funds for the Communist North — we shall have no test of the peaceful experiment and the threat of a renewed war will hang heavy over Southeast Asia.

President Seeks To Reverse Long 'Look To Washington' Trend

By RICHARD L. STROUT

WASHINGTON — Forty years after Franklin Roosevelt took office as president and vastly extended federal intervention into social problems, a counterrevolution is under way here led by Richard Nixon.

President Nixon is preaching the return of power to the states and cities, and the revival of individual self-reliance.

And a substantial controversy has developed with Congress over which branch of government will cut social programs — if they are cut — and by how much.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT took office 40 years ago last week with 13 million Americans walking the street for work, and he began the great modern expansion of presidential powers in the emergency.

Mr. Nixon is an activist president like FDR, who has expanded the presidency, too, but ironically his theme is that the affairs of the nation are in order and that it is time to diminish the power of Washington, not increase it.

"The hour of crisis has passed," he states. "The ship of state is back on an even keel, and we can put behind us the fear of capsizing."

Four presidents between FDR and Mr. Nixon — Truman, Eisenhower, Kennedy, and Johnson — have each to some degree increased the presidency, while the prestige of Congress has diminished.

If Mr. Nixon, after 40 years, is able to reverse the centralization of authority in Washington, he could well give his name to a new era.

WARTIME POWER now has substantially passed to the White House.

This is true whether the occupant is Republican or Democrat. Constitutionally it is Congress's power to declare war, but Mr. Nixon ordered the incursion into Cambodia by himself, and Congress went along.

It is noted, by contrast, that Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin had to get Politburo approval before he could order Russian troops to invade Czechoslovakia in 1968.

Now the issue with Congress is over spending power. Primarily this is one of degree. Other presidents have impounded funds. And today Congress seems willing to accept Mr. Nixon's budget ceiling of $265 billion (which, incidentally, is not a "cut" in spending, but is actually $19 billion — 7.5 per cent — higher than last year).

The spending battle is largely over priorities: what services will be altered, and by how much.

HISTORIAN CLINTON Rossiter writes that the American president in the 20th century emerged in popular perception as the defender of the poor, of minorities, and of civil rights.

But this theory rested to some degree on control by the so-called Roosevelt coalition — youth, labor, ethnic groups, cities and the South.

Mr. Nixon still asserts care for the indigent and minorities, and notes his introduction of the drastic family-assistance program of welfare reform, which failed to pass Congress.

His emphasis, however, is different, just as his political base, which gave him an enormous electoral victory, is different. It is built on middle-class values and a centrist coalition. Blacks, for example, feel excluded.

Meanwhile Mr. Nixon has built up a strong governing machine in the White House, one of the most powerful in history, with the Cabinet demoted and loyal managerial figures riding herd on the big Washington bureaucracy.

Mr. Nixon has picked justices for the Supreme Court with great care and with one more appointment will have an ideological majority.

WHETHER ALL THIS amounts to a "constitutional crisis" is questionable, but any long-time observer of Washington knows that a showdown is possible.

One problem for Mr. Nixon is social instability:

Wealth is distributed unevenly (the richest 10 percent own 56 percent, while the poorest 10 percent are actually in debt).

Race is still a problem: While unemployment averaged 5.3 percent last year that of teen-age blacks in cities was 35.9 percent.

Year-Around School Liked Where Tried, But Opposed Elsewhere

The year-around school program that has enjoyed success on Petaluma's Eastside seems to be spreading slowly to Westside schools.

Both La Tercera and Miwok Valley schools have been on the new schedule for nearly a year, and it appears another Eastside school and one on the Westside will join the ranks in July.

Neither Bernard Eldredge school in the Old Adobe School District nor Cherry Valley School in the Petaluma District has the same crowding problem that forced the other two schools onto the plan. Instead, teachers and parents have requested the change for educational improvements.

In a survey of parents who already have children on the schedule, 75 per cent heartily approved. Fourteen per cent said they preferred the traditional nine-month calendar and 11 per cent were undecided.

CHERRY VALLEY appears to be the only Westside school ready to give the 45-15 plan a try. Students would be in class for 45 days (or nine weeks) followed by three weeks vacation.

Other Westside schools have launched studies only to find parents basically opposed and in some cases circulating petitions to prevent the change.

Eastside mothers for the most part are as enthusiastic about the year-around schedule as many Westside mothers are opposed to it.

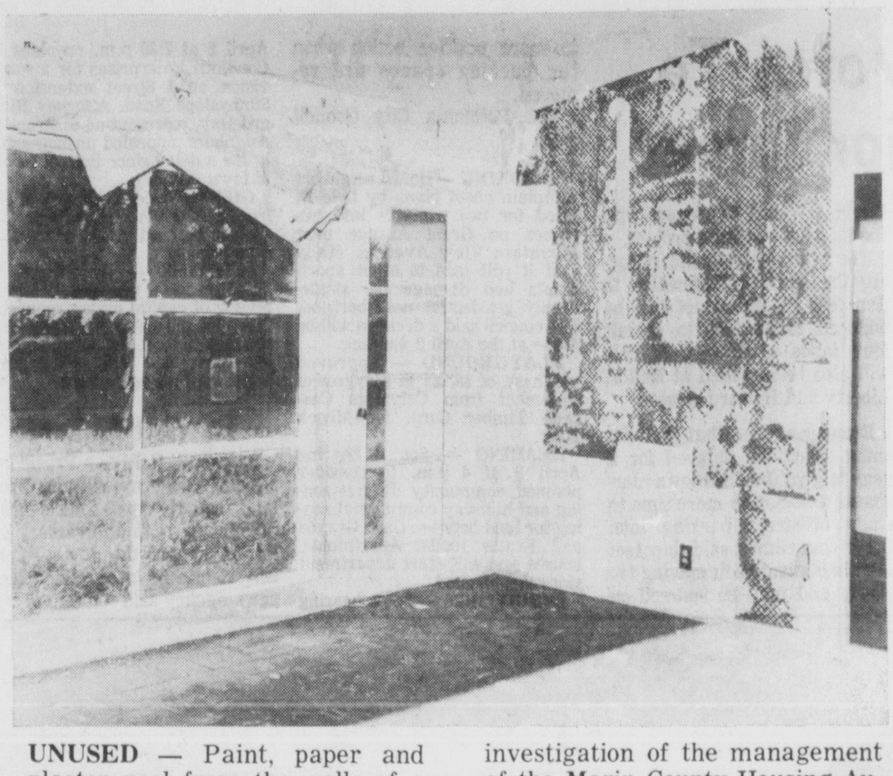
The only major complaint is from parents who have children attending schools in different districts on different schedules.

The resulting conflict in vacation times for students has caused enormous problems in planning family trips and outings. In some cases parents must consult two school schedules and try to reconcile them with their work schedules to try to find a time when both parents and children will be free.

MOTHERS REPORT the more frequent but shorter vacation breaks give their children a better attitude about school. Some report they had to literally push their children out the door last year, but have found real enthusiasm this year.

Most are pleased they no longer must find things to occupy their children for the three-month vacation. Many say three weeks is nearly perfect since it allows time for outings and visits, yet the children have little time to become restless and whine they have nothing to do.

Fathers surveyed were equally pleased, since many of their employers prefer they take non-summer vacations. Many in the construction industry have their busiest season in the summer and have been able to plan family vacations for the first time in years.



UNUSED — Paint, paper and plaster peel from the walls of a Santa Venetia home, part of the deterioration of the dwelling at 805 Rincon Way which today prompted the board of supervisors to call for a grand jury investigation of the management of the Marin County Housing Authority's leased housing program. Supervisors were told the house has been left to decay untenanted for months despite a long list of applicants for leased housing.

Roumiguiere Asks For Grand Jury Probe Of Leased Housing

By ERIK M. INGRAM

Marin County supervisors called today for a grand jury investigation into the operation and possible mismanagement of the leased housing program run by the county housing authority.

Their unanimous request came after Supervisor Robert A. Roumiguiere reported an inspection of two Santa Venetia homes currently under the program had convinced him of the need for a grand jury probe.

The two homes, located at 805 Rincon Way and 843 Rosal Way, have been vacant for about seven months, though hundreds of families are on the housing authority's waiting list.

"Each home has been allowed to deteriorate to the point where it will cost the taxpayers a minimum of $3,000 to $4,000 each to repair," Roumiguiere said.

Additionally, some $3,000 in rent has been paid by the authority to the landlords while the buildings have stood vacant.

Under terms of the contracts, the housing authority leases homes at about their market rent and then sublets them to needy families at a subsidized rate.

"These properties have become a cancer in a community where people work hard to keep their homes and neighborhoods looking nice," he continued.

"Imagine living next door to a house where the weeds are up to the windows, paint has practically all peeled off and the mount of garbage is so big and old that the rats come and go at will."

The problem is not new to Santa Venetia residents who several months ago petitioned the housing authority board to repair the homes and rent to reliable families or get out.

The residents were assured by Executive Director Wallace K. Shepherd and housing authority board members that the properties would be upgraded.

"We want to be good neighbords," Shepherd told the group at that time, adding leased housing tenants would be carefully screened and maintenance tools supplied for upkeep of the homes.

Shepherd could not be reached for comment on the apparent failure to keep the promise. And his assistant in charge of the leased housing program, Robert Lee, refused to discuss the deteriorating homes. "I, ah, have not been given authority to speak to the press," Lee said. "I don't want to overstep my authority."

The home at 805 Rincon Way is a typical four-bedroom subdivision home like many others on the block. It differs, however, because of its unhappy appearance — doors that won't lock, windows that won't close, dry-rot through the ceiling and walls, foot-high weeds in the yard and peeling paint and wallpaper.

The one at 843 Rosal isn't quite so bad, though neighbors still consider it a snake-pit. A mound of trash — a sort of rat's delight — litters the garage floor. The owner has threatened to sue the authority.

"There is absolutely no excuse for operating a heavily subsidized governmental program in this manner," Roumiguiere told the board in a letter.

Roumiguiere requested the grand jury to determine where the blame lies and to find out how many others of the authority's 240 leased housing units are in the same condition.

"Only last year, I attended a San Rafael City Council meeting at which the housing authority presented slides and glowing reports of the program. Apparently the impression they so ably presented was something less than the truth," he added.

Carpeting Stolen

Workmen from Builders Installation Co. of San Jose told Petaluma police yesterday that 616 yards of carpeting were stolen from apartments under construction at 127 Magnolia Avenue. Loss was estimated at $2,608.

Planning Commission Approves General Plan

The Marin County Planning Commission, completing its hearings on the proposed countywide general plan, last night recommended its adoption to the county board of supervisors.

Last night's hearing was the eighth held by the commission, which had previously adopted portions of the plan but never all of it.

The plan calls for controlling growth, preserving the environment and maintaining a balanced population and social mix.

Before adoption, however, the commission spent nearly two hours discussing the plan's "implementation section" which outlines the kinds of action and financing needed to make the plan work.

Planning Director Werner von Gundell told the commission about $1.7 billion will be needed over the next 20 years for housing, transit, highways and open space — the key elements of the plan.

Of the total, some $800 million, he said, is expected from federal and state sources, some $43 million from county property taxes, some $400 million from transit and bond revenues and $455 million from unknown sources.

The commission, in adopting the implementation section, agreed in general with chairman Jack G. Nixon who said portions of the plan may never be achieved because of financial and legal limitations.

"It's important that we've set goals and identified problem areas," he said, adding the county must have something to strive toward.

The only dissenting vote was cast by Commissioner George P. Leonard who said "a less innovative plan could meet all state mandated objectives without the financial and legislative burden" of this plan.

Commissioner Margaret B. Azevedo, while voting for the plan, questioned its heavy reliance on state and federal funding.

"Given past grants and present (federal) administration policies . . . what is the realistic basis for these estimates?" she asked.

Von Gundell responded that the cost figures were his department's best estimates of what could be expected. Nothing is assured,however, he said.

Windows Broken

Rock throwing vandals broke five windows in a school bus, valued at $100, about noon yesterday at San Rafael High School, John J. Douglas, transportation foreman reported to San Rafael police.

Novato Planning Panel Wants Zoning Administrator Post

The Novato Planning Commission last night recommended creating the job of zoning administrator to be filled by a senior planner who would hear variance and use permit matters.

Planning Director Brian W. Mattson said a zoning administrator would free the commission from minor matters so it could "focus on development projects and planning issues."

The job could be filled by a present staff member without increasing the department's budget, Mattson said.

Commissioners approved a $144,655 budget for 1973-74, up $5,705 from the current budget. The new budget figure doesn't include any pay raises.

The breakdown is personnel services, $109,360, down $660; maintenance and operation, $33,365, up $6,700, and capital outlay, $1,930, down $335.

Commissioner Leroy Syrop moved that the zoning administrator salary be higher than that of a senior planner, but no one agreed.

Commissioners voted 3-2 with Robert Glascock and Dr. George E. McDaniel dissenting that their pay be raised from $10 to $15 a meeting, with a limit of four meetings a month. Commissioners Gail Wilhelm and Richard L. O'Connell were absent.

Syrop said he believes the raise can be paid without increasing the amount budgeted for commissioner's salaries, $3,360.

The largest increase in the budget is in consulting services, up $5,500 to $20,000.

Mattsaon said $5,000 would go to complete the study and mapping of slopes and geologic hazards and $15,000 for other consultants to aid in environmental impact reports, noise study, air pollution, flood control or bay plain development study.

Mattson listed a work program for the coming year including reevaluation of the downtown plan, analysis of the role of redevelopment, revision of the zoning ordinance in keeping with the downtown plan, implementation of the general plan, completion of slope stability and geologic hazards study, updating of subdivision and development regulations.

The capital outlay budget includes a sound level meter, $370; and a calibrator, $270, to be used for measuring sound to enforce noise regulations, and $500 for an overhead transparent projector for presentations by the staff to the commission, council and citizen groups.

Ruling Is Due March 28 On Nude Signs

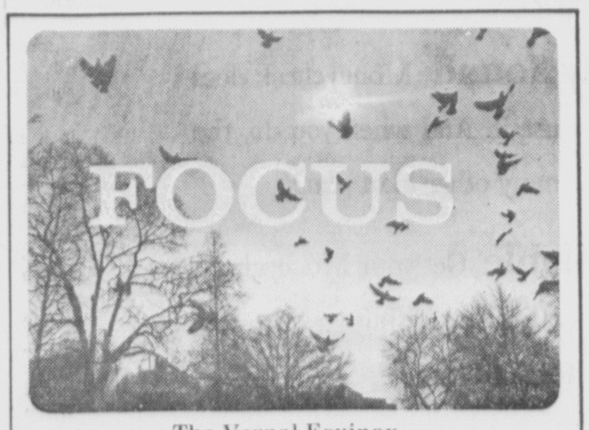
SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A judge says she will rule March 28 on the city's ordinance banning signs depicting nude or topless women.

Municipal Court Judge Agnes O'Brien made the announcement yesterday after hearing arguments from attorneys for topless and bottomless clubs that the law violates their clients' rights to free speech under the U.S. Constitution.

However, Carol Hehmeyer, deputy district attorney, contended that the city was fully entitled to regulate the signs.

Several night clubs have been forced to cover signs when the city began enforcing the 1970 ordinance.

The Vernal Equinox



At 1:13 p.m. today, Eastern Standard Time, the sun will be vertically over the equater and day and night will be of equal length all over the Earth. This moment marks the beginning of spring. At only one other time in the calendar does this celestial circumstance recur. This is at the autumnal equinox, occurring about September 23, which marks the beginning of fall. For centuries, the spring or vernal equinox has been associated with the rebirth of nature and ancient cultures celebrated it as the first day of the year.

Petaluma Votes To Widen Major Street

A Plan to widen Washington Street — at the expense of 43 parking spaces — was approved last night by the Petaluma City Council.

The council agreed the street should be widened from Kentucky to Howard streets to improve traffic flow, but said the banning of parking could cause even more problems for downtown merchants.

On a 5-2 vote with councilmen Robert A. Brunner and John W. Cavanagh Jr. dissenting, the council told City Engineer David A. Young to proceed with the $151,000 widening project.

The plan will include reducing the width of sidewalks to five feet so the street can be widened to 52 feet to permit four lanes of traffic. Signals will also be installed at Keller, Liberty and Howard streets.

Brunner argued that the widening should be delayed for a year to give the downtown merchants association more time to study off-street parking lots. Other councilmen said they feel merchants had been moving too slowly and may be spurred on to more positive action when the parking spaces are removed.

The Petaluma City Council also:

REZONING — Heard neighbors complain about plans by Lyle D. Hood for two triplexes and two homes on Grant Avenue near Mountain View Avenue. Many said it will lead to other apartments and damage the single-family residential neighborhood. The council said a decision will be made at the April 2 meeting.

PLAYGROUND — Approved purchase of $8,723 in playground equpment from Columbia Cascade Timber Corp. for Miwok Park.

HEARING — Set a hearing April 2 at 4 p.m. to consider planned community district zoning and highway commercial zoning for land between Casa Grande and Frates roads. Apartments, houses and a K-Mart department store are planned.

SUBDIVISION — Set a hearing April 2 at 7:30 p.m. on plans by Condiotti Enterprises for a subdivision on I Street extension at Sunnyslope Road. Attorney Richard Day, representing disgruntled neighbors, appealed unsuccessfully for a delay since he will be out of town that day.

GIFT — Accepted a gift of $50 from the Old Adobe Antique Car Club to be used by the recreation department.

MEETING — Adjourned to Monday at 4 p.m. to continue review of capital outlay requests. The council also changed the starting time of the April 2 meeting from 7:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. because of a long agenda.

According to the birth certificate department of the city's Health Services Administration, the most popular names given children in 1972 were Michael and Jennifer.

The next most popular names for boys and girls, according to the department's list released Monday, were in paired order: David and Michelle; Christopher and Elizabeth; John and Christine; James, Joseph, Robert (fifth place ties) and Maria; Anthony and Nicole, Richard and Kimberley, Brian and Amy or Denise.

The most popular names of 1928, John and Mary, were not on the 1972 list.

Board Votes A Pay Boost

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The Board of Supervisors has voted to increase the pay boosts it plans for 10,000 city employes during the coming fiscal year.

By a 6-5 vote, the board decided Monday to make the increases 4 per cent instead of 3 ½ per cent.

Previously the board had voted 5 per cent boosts for 3,000 employes and 7 ½ per cent increases for another 2,000.

The pay package, if approved next week by the board and signed by Mayor Joseph L. Alioto, would add $8 million to the cost of city government.

Schabels Mark 50th Anniversary

One rainy day in the early 1920s Herman Schabel got off the street car in San Francisco with no umbrella and a mile to walk.

"I saw her up ahead — didn't know who she was, but she had an umbrella. I caught up with her and she saved the day," he said.

"She" was Jeanette Parks, who later became his bride, and this month celebrated 50 years of marriage to him.

Wed March 3, 1923, at the home of a minister in San Francisco, the Schabels are parents of Dr. Russell Schabel of San Anselmo and Frederick Schabel of San Francisco. They were honored at a party at Dr. Schabel's home attended by 25 friends and relatives.

Schabel is a native of Belgium. He came to Chicago when he was 2 years old, later living in Montana prior to moving to California. He did some gold mining, ranching and farming in Calaveras County before being drafted during World War I. Mrs. Schabel was born in Pittsburgh, Pa., and came to San Francisco as a child.

The couple moved to Fairfax 15 years ago when Schabel retired as a cloth cutter for a laundry supply house in San Francisco.

Gardening is their greatest enjoyment.

Gardener And Maintenance Worker Likes Outside Job

By JOAN LISETOR

Charlotte Carlsen says her job is pretty "housewifey," but how many housewives do you see zipping down the Northgate Mall in an electric cart with garbage cans rattling on the back?

Charlotte, 21, is the gardener and all around maintenance worker for the Northgate Mall. She takes care of the plants, empties the garbage cans and cleans the fountains and pools.

"My job is pretty much keeping an eye on things," she said. "What I like is I'm outside all day and on my own."

Last fall when she was looking for a job Charlotte heard that the landscape contractor that maintains the Northgate grounds was looking for a woman. She was hired in October, so has a rough winter behind her.

"I've always liked taking care of plants, so the job seemed a natural. Everyday I say hello to the plants. No one else talks to them. I weed the tree wells, clean the flower beds and in the spring I guess I'll fertilize," she explained.

Her biggest job is cleaning the large pool in the center of the mall, she said.

"I have to remove the cement blocks to get to the room underground, where there are switches to turn the pumps off and on. I don't understand what I'm doing. I just do it by memory," she said.

Charlotte, who lives in Kentfield, attended Redwood High School and College of Marin.

About her future she said she isn't real sure what she wants to do. But she is sure of one thing.

Attitudes Learned About Drinking

Every citizen, whether drinker or non-drinker, learns a set of attitudes towards alcohol. He carries around as personal baggage a formed view of the social situations in which it is appropriate to drink, what substance it is pleasant to drink, whether it is allowable to use drink to cure his tensions or aid his sleep or snuff out a sniffle.

Research by the department of psychology, University of Strathclyde, Scotland, shows that even by the age of 6 most children recognize drunkenness, that by 14, 92 per cent of boys and 85 per cent of girls have tasted alcohol, that pub inking for boys really starts at 17.

MRS. FLORENCE Huber, an interior designer, will talk about color magic in the home and demonstrate how colors affect each other, at the Home and Garden Section of the Tamalpais Woman's Club.

New Fillings Are Under Study

New tooth-filling cements that appear much like fine bone china and adhere directly to the enamel and dentine of teeth are undergoing clinical testing in the United Kingdom.

Dentists should find the new materials useful in treating tiny cavities that occur at the gum line, according to a report in Chemical & Engineering News. These cavities are now difficult to repair with conventional cements because their close proximity to the gum makes drilling undesirable.

The basic ingredients of the cements are alumina, cryolite, fluorite and quartz. This mixture is fired in an electric furnace at about 1200° Centigrade, shock-cooled, and ground to a fine powder. They were developed at the laboratory of the Government Chemist in London.

Don Hoisington of San Rafael was his best man. The bride's brothers Nick and Mark, the groom's brother Tim, and Craig DeBaeke of Novato were ushers.

A Questionnarie For Parents On Feelings About Teen-Agers

As announced last week, we have compiled over 30 questions about situations most likely to disturb, puzzle, challenge, defeat or cheer present-day parents.

Because the survey is not controlled (anyone can enter, and we hope you do!), we can't predict whether results will be loaded toward the liberal or conservative, frightened or confident side; but we believe we should get a fairly representative sampling. Secret Of Keeping Grills Cleaned

The nonstick finishes on electric waffle bakers and grills should delight the homemaker who looks at appliances with an eye to easy use and care. The secret of keeping the nonstick surfaces of the grids functional and attractive is regular cleaning.

If the grids are immersible, they should be washed in hot sudsy water after each use to avoid a residue built-up which, although invisible at first, will cause sticking and staining in time. If not immersible, wipe them with a sudsy sponse, rinse and dry after each use.

INSIDE YOUR HOME

Colors Are Now In Everything

By CAROLYN S. MURRAY
Distributed by General Features Corp.

It's always fun to create a color scheme around red, white and blue. But what many a homeowner waves the flag about is the fact that bright colors can now be found in carefree fibers, wall coverings and paint finishes.

In the early days of man-made fibers, we were stuck with beiges, tweeds and salt-and-pepper textures. Most of us avoided blue shadings in home furnishings because we'd been burned by the fading of blue dyes in our apparel. Remember the blue coats that turned pinkish after a few months of exposure to sun and after seasonal storage in a lighted closet?

WELL, TIMES and materials have changed, and we've been liberated in our choice of colors. This is partly due to the kinds of materials we use, for example, shiny vinyl upholstery, nylon fibers, plastic surfaces, color-fast dyes and latex paints.

The very nature of these newer materials provides automatic freedom from concern over spills, alcohol and heat. So we can stop worrying about their longevity under battle conditions at home and start having fun with color.

In the den-play area shown today, designer Ann Valk of Saratoga really flipped for red, white and blue, even though she kept her head s far as the practical, dual-purpose aspects of the room are concerned.

Since the room sometimes hosts an overnight guest, Ms. Valk chose a tubular campaign bed instead of a sofa. She liked the see-through quality of its design. It looks smaller than a sofa of the same proportions, and thus doesn't appear to eat up space. Then she powed it with lipstick-red vinyl upholstery. With such a punch of color, she could then play the pattern game. So she applied red, white and blue printed fabric to walls and ceilings; used scraps of same to slipcover a variety of ruffled and straight pillows.

SOME WOOD pieces seemed in order, so she chose rush-seated chairs finished in colored lacquer, the kind that lets the wood grain peek through. The old armoire has been refitted inside for storage and covered with a small-print wallpaper (washable of course).

Finally, but perhaps first, the unifying element of brilliant-blue carpet. This one is Briarcliff with easy care by Walter Carpet. And it's made of DuPont nylon with a 501 label that indicates it resists almost anything a family can dream up.

Oh, one thing more. And probably the thing most of us would never think of: A bit of architectural fantasy is created through the use of tubular metal arches!

Softer, Fluffier

Fabric softeners make washable fabrics feel softer and fluffier. They also reduce wrinkling and clinging due to static electricity and make ironing easier or sometimes unnecessary. Different types are available so read manufacturers' instructions carefully for proper use.

Women's Clubs Present Plates To Mrs. Nixon

I-J Special Report

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The first in a series of handmade glass plates designed to commemorate the nation's 200th birthday was presented to Mrs. Richard M. Nixon by Mrs. Kermit V. Haugan, president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs.

The federation has commissioned a master American craftsman to sculpture in glass a series of four plates, which will depict a "Portrait of Liberty." A new design will be released each year for four consecutive years, and the plates will be sold by club women throughout the United States.

On July 4, 1976, a final ceremony will take place in Independence Hall, and all molds for the plates will be destroyed, creating a limiteddition. Each of the plates will be of an actual historic scene depicting one of the four major movements of the American Revolution.

Concessions On Center Offered

By PATRICIA PERRY

More than 500 persons jammed Corte Madera's recreation building last night for a public hearing on the town's redevelopment plan, a hearing at which developer Ernest W. Hahn offered concessions which appeared to do little to lessen opposition to his proposed regional shopping center. (See related story, page 1.)

The Southern California developer described modification of his original plan and offered to give 34 acres for open space, only to be told by one man that he and property owner Domenic Muzzi should "give blood, sweat and tears."

Equally firm was a speaker on the other side of the question that has bitterly divided the town, a speaker who asserted that a development such as the huge regional shopping center is the only way the town can afford to buy open space, through creation of tax revenue.

So many people wanted to have an official say in the quasijudicial proceedings (speakers had to be sworn in) that the hearing was continued to Monday, at 7:30 p.m. at the center.

Hahn explained that the latest plans for his multimillion-dollar Marin Mall will require much less fill, meaning 500,000 cubic yards will have to be imported, instead of a million.

Resiting the mall to straddle the railroad right-of-way on to some of Domenic Muzzi's property will leave 34 acres of natural habitat, including two lagoons and a salt marsh undeveloped to the north of the shops, said Hahn.

If the redevelopment project succeeds, he promised, "we will deed the property to the Town of Corte Madera for one dollar with absolute deed restrictions that it can only be used for public open space and never be changed."

Hahn's offer was loudly applauded, but successive speakers indicated they thought it wasn't enough.

Gerald Rubin, a member of the citizens' general plan committee, declared that Hahn and Muzzi should "give blood, sweat and tears" and donate more open space. He said Muzzi is getting a much higher and earlier return on his bayfront lands than "ever expected," and Hahn "has got the obligation to buy that 34 acres already."

Robert L. Dunn said the town redevelopment agency should use its power of eminent domain to acquire as open space all property in the 446 acres except that needed for the shopping center.

"If Hahn is going to dedicate 34 acres the town should bite the bullet and get the rest that way. The idea of 60 or 70 acres of commercial development in there as well is impossible."

Paul Miller of Kentfield, a leader in the fight to preserve the Heerdt Marsh, which borders Corte Madera's redevelopment area, said a shopping center plan "of this magnitude is of concern to the entire county."

William Gilbert asked for a delay until means of financing purchase of open space could be reported to the people, while Brock Thompson said he thinks a shopping center would increase traffic and smog.

The loudest applause of the evening, fully one minute long, came after an impassioned speech by a San Rafael resident, Hans Lamm.

A native of Germany, Lamm said: "It may sound funny in a foreign accent, but this land is our land. If we don't preserve open space we're putting a mortgage on ourselves and our children nobody can ever pay off."

Lamm said that as a commuter who regularly sits for 30 minutes in the traffic jam at Corte Madera in the mornings "no environmental impact report can convince me that the traffic will improve with this shopping center."

He was accused of "dreaming a bit" by Thomas Zaragoza, who said Corte Madera cannot stand still in the economic growth of the whole county. "To maintain services it must have money," he said, "if you let this shopping center pass with its revenue to ensure growth you're losing a golden opportunity. . .we've heard enough input, let's move tonight."

His statement brought both applause and boos.

John A. Grasham, superintendent of the Marin Community College District, requested the town to return any funds diverted by the redevelopment process to the college district, complaining that trustees consider forecasts of vast funds coming in five to eight years time are of no help in the district's next four critical years.

Erik Norstad proclaimed, to loud applause, that "a big commitment like this should be put to the vote of the people."

Robert Simmons, a former Corte Madera councilman, said he supported the redevelopment concept as the community's only hope of acquiring open space.

Senate Bill 90, which limits the town to the current year's tax rate unless an election approves a raise, means Corte Madera will have problems in even maintaining its services next year, said Simmons, "and there's no way in hell we could buy open space."

The formal hearing was preceded by adoption of an ordinance making interim modifications to the general plan agreed on at last week's council meeting.

The alterations, which would permit a variety of commercial uses on the Muzzi property, have angered open space advocates and were opposed by councilman Robert J. Flahive, who said he wanted redevelopment funds committed to buy public lands.

Councilman Harold B. Wagstaff also opposed the modification ordinance, although he stated he was in favor of redevelopment.

Mayor Holmes S. Norville and councilmen Edward W. Colthurst and Herber C. Leney voted in favor of the changes.

GARRICK OHLSSON

Competition Winner To Play April 3

Pianist Garrick Ohlsson, the first American to win the Chopin International Piano Competition in Warsaw, will appear with the Marin Symphony at 8 p.m. April 3 at the Marin Veterans Memorial Building.

Ohlsson, 24, will repeat his award-winning performance of "Concerto No. 1 for Piano and Orchestra" by Chopin.

Following a tour of Poland last year, Ohlsson made his debut in four appearances with the Philadelphia Orchestra conducted by Eugene Ormandy and performed with the New York Philharmonic under Seiji Ozawa. This season, he is expected to play 50 performances in North America and Europe.

Hugo Rinaldi, substituting for regular conductor Sandor Salgo on sabbatical leave, will conduct the orchestra in Copland's "Symphony No. 3" and in "Concerto for Violin, Cello, Strings and Harpsichord" by Vivaldi.

Sausalito Approves School Transfer Plan

The Sausalito School District board, which has been seeking closer ties with Mill Valley District, decided last night that up to 40 students, if they wish, may attend Mill Valley Middle School next fall.

The board vote was unanimous and staff was instructed to work out details of the arrangement with Mill Valley staff.

The decision followed a report by trustee Barbara Harris that Mill Valley representatives have tentatively approved acceptance of 40 pupils from sixth, seventh and eighth grades as an experiment in cooperation by the districts.

Mrs. Harris said more Sausalito students could go if Mill Valley pupils from Edna Maguire Middle School elect to attend Sausalito's Martin Luther King School.

She and board chairman Barbara Times have been negotiating since last fall with Mill Valley on combining some programs. However, Mrs. Times said that any future merger is "a long way off."

Trustee Warren K. Hansen said that the transfer would have to be racially and economically balanced or it would disrupt the racial make-up at Martin Luther7King.

Mrs. Harris said that the transferred students would reflect the racial mix at the Sausalito school and would include equal numbers of students from each grade. She said a university researcher might possibly agree to pick the students and study the experiment's progress.

"There's some real problems with the idea," said trustee Douglas B. Martin, "but the worst that can come out of it would be more communication with Mill Valley."

The Mill Valley district negotiators have already rejected a proposal for totally combining the two middle schools in the near future.

They set April 2 as the date to vote on whether they eventually plan to combine the district's two schools at one site and to decide which site it would be.

The board said they would be seeking teachers views on the matter.

The Sausalito School District board also:

WAGES — Heard Harry Bearsch, president of the Sausalito District Teachers Association, ask for a 9.7 per cent salary boost for teachers for 1973-74. Bearsh said the request would bring salaries into line with those of Mill Valley district teachers and would make up for a rise in the cost-of-living. He also proposed an increase in fringe beneftis of about 1 per cent.

CLOSED MEETING — Held a closed meeting to discuss guidelines for the district superintendent to follow in negotiating with teachers on salaries.

DISMISSAL — Dismissed Willie Grayson as a probationary bus driver-maintenance man and replaced him with William Everett.

PLANNING GROUP — Set April 23 as the organization date for a long-range master planning committee to chart district planning for the next few years. Supt. Lawrence A. Lindberg said any interested citizen was invited to join.

CONFERENCE — Voted to send four district teachers to the Association of California School Administrators conference at a cost of $200.

SUMMER SCHOOL — Authorized Lindberg to begin plans for the 1973 summer school. Lindberg said he would report on whether the session would be financially possible.

Use Of Fire Road Voted As Temporary

The Corte Madera Town Council last night decided that a fire road being used by mudslide stricken Mill Valley residents must not be considered a permanent right-of-way.

Jana Haehl, president of the Corte Madera Avenue Homeowners Association, complained that 40 families in Vista Linda behind Mill Valley golf course have been using a fire road across the Niccolini property onto Corte Madera Avenue ever since their street was closed by slides.

Mrs. Haehl said that this weekend motorists were traversing fire roads all over the Northridge because the entry through Corte Madera Avenue is open.

Town Mgr. Ronald E. Bartels said Mill Valley's city engineer put a gate across Vista Linda to keep people out after slides undermined three homes and caused one to be vacated.

Access to Corte Madera had been arranged by Mill Valley with the county fire department, the Marin Municipal Water District and the Niccolinis, said Bartels.

Councilmen voted to inform everyone concerned it was a temporary right-of-way for use in the current emergency only, and to tell the Marin Municipal Water District to install gates to keep motorists off the Northridge fire trails.

The Corte Madera Town Council Also:

FIFER — Adopted six resolutions setting up the Fifer Special Assessment District, which will construct storm drain pumping facilities on Lucky Drive between Nellen Drive and Fifer Avenue at a total cost of $199,000, all to be paid by the Western Real Estate Development Corporation of San Francisco.

DESIGN — Expanded the board of design's membership from three to five.

HIDDEN VALLEY — Set a public hearing for April 16 at 7:30 p.m. in Corte Madera Town Hall for Roemer and Estes to appeal the planning commission's denial of approval of a tentative map for Hidden Valley Unit No. 5.

CONFERENCES — Authorized Police Chief David L. McIntosh's attendance at the California Peace Officers Association, meeting in Monterey from May 6 to 10 at a cost of $215; Police Sgt. Rossof's attendance at the Bahn Fair Institute of Scientific Law Enforcement at Lake Tahoe from April 2 to 12 at a cost of $734; and Town Clerk Betty Behel's attendance at the California City Clerk's Institute in Fresno, April 27 and 28, at $90.

VOLUNTEERS — Deferred a request from the Corte Madera Volunteer Firemen for an increase in drill and alarm pay from $3 to $5 until its 1973-74 budget hearings.

CLEANUP — Designated April 16 to 20 as its semiannual cleanup week with free curbside pickup of containerized dry material.

WATER SAFETY — Waived its 50 per cent residency requirements for water safety classes.

AID — Waived recreation program fees for children whose families receive Aid to Families of Dependent Children, providing classes meet minimum enrollment figures.

Palsy Walkers Must Turn In Money Today

Today is the last day for participants in the United Cerebral Palsy Association Happiness Walk in Marin to deposit money to be eligible for prizes, according to Mimi Zellers of the Marin palsy association.

Ten walkers, who collected the most money from sponsors who pledged a certain amount for each mile walked in the March 3 event, will win trips to Disneyland. The next 10 will receive theater tickets and 250 will get gift certificates for local hamburger restaurants, she said.

The Marin County school whose students raised the largest total amount will receive $500 to be used for scholarships, educational materials or other activities related to health education. Two shrubs and a tree will go to the second place school.

It is estimated that $75,000 will be raised when final results are in from walks in Marin, Alameda, Contra Costa, San Mateo and Santa Clara counties, said Mrs. Zellers.

Pay Hikes, Cuts In Aid Hurt Game Programs

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Unexpected salary increases and cutbacks in federal aid will cost California $800,000 worth of new fish and game programs this year, the department says.

E.C. Fullerton, deputy director of the Fish and Game Department, told the Assembly Ways and Means Committee Monday that $675,000 originally budgeted for expanded programs must now be put towards a 13 per cent proposed pay increase for state workers.

A spokesman later said an additional $125,000 worth of planned programs will be scrapped because of projected cuts in the Nixon administration budget for fiscal 1973-74.

Rice Price Soars

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Strong foreign demand stemming from a poor Asian rice crop last year has pushed U.S. rice prices to a record of about $8 per hundredweight, up about 50 per cent since last fall, the Agriculture Department said today.

Citizens Forum Delegates Named

Verna Vargas of Belvedere and Mike Djordjevich of San Rafael have been elected as Marin County's representatives on the new Regional Citizens Forum created under the Association of Bay Area Governments.

Both have been officers in conservative Republican organizations, Djordjevich as president of the Young Republicans of California and Mrs. Vargas as a local and state officer for the California Federation of Republican Women.

They were among 20 persons elected to the forum's coordinating committee at its all-day convention in San Francisco on March 10. Some 400 citizens attended the convention.

The forum is supposed to give citizens a voice in ABAG and other regional agencies.

Magee Trial Finale Set Tomorrow

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Closing arguments will begin tomorrow at the murder trial of Ruchell Magee, charged in connection with the 1970 Marin County Hall of Justice gun battle that left four dead.

The defense ended testimony yesterday by calling one rebuttal witness—a pathologist who said Judge Harold J. Haley was dead before a shotgun blast tore off part of his head during the battle.

Magee, 33, a San Quentin convict who joined an abortive escape attempt, was charged with murder and kidnaping in the death of Haley and the taking of four other hostages. Two other escapees and their accomplice also died in the gun battle. Angela Davis, a black revolutionary, was acquitted on similar charges last summer.

Former Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark and defense counsel Robert Carrow will present the defense's closing arguments, while Deputy State Attorney General Albert W. Harris Jr. will summarize the prosecution case.

Dr. Rudiger Breitnecker of Baltimore was called back as the defense's sole rebuttal witness to refute testimony by two prosecution pathologists that Haley was still alive when the shotgun blast hit him. Breitnecker insisted the judge was already dead from a chest wound.

First Test Of Hijack Pact With Cuba Seen

MIAMI (UPI) — Two Cuban fishermen who jumped from their fishing boat as it was being towed out of Key West, Fla., turned themselves into immigration authorities today, setting the stage for the first test of the new U.S.-Cuban antihijacking agreement.

As the two young men rode to the federal building with Ellis Rubin, their bearded Miami Beach attorney, he said they told him in broken English: "Please, no Cuba, no Cuba."

"They would rather die than go back to Cuba," he said.

Oslirio Hernandez, 21, and Heriberto Caridad Perez, 23, jumped from the fishing boat, Cayo Largo, Sunday night and were rescued by Cuban exiles, who hid them from authorities Monday while efforts were being made to request political asylum for them.

But in Washington State Department spokesman Charles W. Bray said Monday that "circumstances did not warrant granting these two individuals safe haven.

"It was made clear to them the United States was not to become a haven for hijackers," Bray said.

"There was no hijacking as far as I know—there was an abortive attempt," Rubin said. "They wanted to go to Mexico, and I don't think this constitutes a hijacking attempt involving the United States.

The case looms as the first test of the hijack treaty signed Feb. 15. The men reportedly tried to force the other seven crew members to go to Mexico when the boat developed engine trouble and had to be towed to Key West. The young men jumped ship as the boat was being towed back out to international waters for its return to Cuba.

"This could very well be the test of our new treaty with Cuba and I am prepared to go all the way to keep these boys from going back to Cuba...that would be a fate worse than death," Rubin said.

Hernandez met his father—a short balding refugee who lives here—for the first time in several years in the hallway of the federal building and the two embraced emotionally.

The surrender today officially put the problem in the lap of the State Department and Immigration authorities for the first time. When the fishing boat landed in Key West, the nine Cubans were listed as "unlanded" without official status. But with their surrender they now have refugee status.

Rubin said he arranged the surrender with immigration authorities, but said no deal was involved.

Two Accidents Reported In Mine-Clearing

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Pentagon reports two accidents in the U.S. task force of 48 helicopters and about 25 ships which has been conducting mine-clearing operations in North Vietnamese waters for the past two weeks.

On Sunday a U.S. helicopter taking part in the operation crashed and sank in 60 feet of water, the Pentagon reported Monday. All six crewmen got out before the craft sank. One man was in serious condition. The Defense Department said the cause of the crash was not yet known.

On Saturday a fire broke out in the engine room of the minesweeper USS Enhance, which was anchored in a cleared area of the approach to Hon Gay harbor. Three men were treated for smoke inhalation.

Torture Of Civilian Captive Is Reported

CLARK AIR BASE, Philippines (UPI) — U.S. hospital sources said today North Vietnamese interrogators tortured Bobby Joe Keesee, the mystery civilian POW released by Hanoi last week, possibly because they thought he was a spy.

Keesee, 39, a Korean War paratrooper who was captured in North Vietnam in 1970 under mysterious circumstances, was freed last Wednesday with 107 military POWS in Hanoi. He underwent medical examinations and processing at the Clark Air Base hospital before returning Saturday to the United States.

Hospital sources said Keesee was fitted with new teeth to replace those he lost.

"They treated him pretty rough," one source said. "They must have thought he was a spy."

Two Thai pilots said earlier that Keesee, a one-time resident of Amarillo, Tex., forced them to fly him at gunpoint from Bangkok to a beach in North Vietnam, where they left him on Sept. 18, 1970. They said he chartered their small aircraft on the pretense of looking for a remote location for the making of a motion picture.

Exact details of his capture and the reason for his trip to North Vietnam have not been disclosed.

Keesee looked haggard when he was released in Hanoi and he ducked the arrival ceremonies at Clark Air Base by leaving the rear of the plane that returned the POWs. But for Saturday's departure, he appeared wearing a sharp cocoa brown suit and kissed the American flag to the surprise and applause of the crowd.

Sources said Keesee, whose father now lives in Phoenix, Ariz., was deeply impressed by his treatment at Clark.

Bullet Pierces A Flak Jacket

MALIBU, Calif. (UPI) — Marilyn Hart, 18, Terence Matheson, 19, and Richard Donahue were playing with a rifle and a flak jacket, sheriff's deputies reported Monday.

Donahue put on the jacket, and Matheson fired the rifle at him from about two feet away, deputies said. The flak jacket deflected the slug.

"Let me try it," said Miss Hart.

Matheson fired at her back, from about the same distance as he had fired at Donahue. The bullet pierced the jacket and lodged in her abdomen, deputies said. She was in satisfactory condition today at Santa Monica Hospital.

CORONARY CARE

Heart Disease: The No. 1 Killer

By PATRICIA PERRY
(Second of two articles)

Heart disease is the nation's number one killer. It has been estimated that 600,000 persons die of heart disease in America every year. Marin General Hospital's gleaming new coronary care unit has had most of its 18 beds full since it opened in December.

Why can't our hearts keep up as we pursue life, liberty and happiness?

Because we abuse our most vital organ, say physicians. Most of us don't live a life that suits that muscular force pump. We lead sedentary lives, we get fat, we smoke and drink too much, we develop high blood pressure, and we work too hard.

Most important, we let the world worry us, quite literally, to death.

"It's a question of life styles," explained Dr. John J. Bagshaw, director of Marin General Hospital's coronary care unit. "Marin is blessed with too much stress and too much good living."

"I am still convinced the two major things we can work towards are stress and obesity. Obesity can be handled through diet. Stress is far more complicated, I'm not sure how you're going to get away from it."

A typical patient who has suffered a heart attack will spend five days in the acute section of the hospital's unit, constantly monitored by electronic measures and by human nurses.

The patient may stay for another two weeks in the intermediate area. He will no longer be hooked up to the multitude of electronic gadgets that characterize his early days, but he will go on "periodic telemetry," with a battery device relaying his heart beats to a central console.

"There the nurses will work in familiarizing him with his disease and lay the groundwork for his discharge," said Dr. Bagshaw. "Once home he must putter around the house, not doing anything heavy. After a heart attack the area of damage may be healed within six weeks. Normally a doctor would start a patient on increased ambulation and exercise two to six weeks after.

"I usually allow them to go back to work part time eight weeks after the attack. I find by the time most patients are ready to leave the hospital they understand the importance of learning they must have a battle plan and if they follow it, they can live a full life.

"I try very hard to get the patient over any anxiety or fears so that about three months later most of them probably are back to as good, or better, a spot than they were before.

"But there is fear, and often depression. . . that feeling they have a time bomb in their chest. I try to impress them that we can get them back to a better spot. But they must cooperate."

And that cooperation, in most cases, means that a patient must try to change the way he lives.

Sarajane Creech, head nurse of the heart unit, said nurses, in preparing patients for discharge, "encourage them when they return to work to take at least an hour for lunch, to slow down, to quit taking work home with them."

Coronary troubles are the nation's greatest health problem, reiterated Dr. Bagshaw. The mortality rate is 40 per cent.

With heart attacks, he explained, "many, many victims never make it to the hospital. They die shortly after the attack." And he suspects that even more people do die of heart attacks than statistics indicate, because such a cause often doesn't show up in an autopsy.

Because time is of the essence in heart attack cases, the heart unit at Marin General bypasses normal admitting procedures and the emergency room. The ambulance operators radio ahead, and nurses get the bed ready and equipment switched on before the patient arrives.

"The concept is in dealing with a heart which has just been taken through a damaging episode," explained Dr. Bagshaw. "It's had its blood supply cut off, and as the heart is such an electrical organ its potential danger is greatest in the first few hours."

The two potential disasters which face heart patients are fibrillation and asystole.

In fibrillation the heart muscles contract some 700 to 800 times a minute, resulting in a lack of synchronism between heart and pulse beats. The unit has defibrillation machines which can shock the heart back into normality.

In asystole, the heart's electrical activity ceases altogether, and, of course, physicians have a host of remedial measures and equipment.

But, as in all aspects of health care, prevention is better than cure, say heart specialists. The Heart Association of Marin County can provide facts and figures and advice, diets and exercise charts. Those who have a family history of heart trouble are those who should take most care.

The importance of avoiding stress cannot be overemphasized. Marin County, a lively, stressful, community, needs 18 cardiac beds. Remote mountain areas, where inhabitants live to become centenarians despite overeating and heavy smoking, have no need for heart units.

Canal Area Park Hopes Dashed

By NELS JOHNSON

A demand by San Rafael Canal area residents for a central city park at 310-340 Canal Street was dashed last night when an appeal to the San Rafael City Council to overturn planning commission approval of an apartment development for the site met with a 2-2 deadlock vote.

The action came amid a last-minute revelation that poor staff planning had allowed the controversial proposal for a six-structure, 96-unit complex on the 2.5-acre parcel to slip through a loophole in the city's building moratorium permit procedure.

Councilman Fred E. Jensen and Mayor C. Paul Bettini approved the project and rejected an appeal by resident Ben Brinkworth, who challenged the city planning commission's unanimous approval of the complex.

Councilmen Lawrence E. Mulryan and John A. Miskimen urged that action on the project be postponed pending review of on-site parking, as unanimously recommended by the San Rafael Traffic Advisory Committee.

Brinkworth, who has spearheaded local pleas that the apartment-enveloped parcel be turned into a city park, last night urged city fathers to study canal area traffic problems he described as "wall to wall cars". He was told by Bettini that since the project meets parking ordinance requirements by providing 96 on-site parking spaces "there is no sense referring it to the traffic committee."

Planning Director Herbert G. Hotchner noted that though city ordinance requires only 96 spaces for the 96 one-bedroom units, more parking is needed to allow for more than one car per family and guests.

Requiring more parking, however, would set a precedent since the council has never required more than the absolute minimum of parking in the past, said City Atty. Fred C. Robbins.

Another twist to the controversial project was added when Richard C. Fox of San Rafael asked councilmen why the 2.5-acre parcel had not fallen under the city's building moratorium, which requires a permit for a project on a parcel totaling two acres or more.

Though the question baffled councilmen and city staff, the landowners attorney, Albert Bianchi, said the site was composed of two parcels — each smaller than two acres — and thus exempt from the moratorium. Two landowners, William J. Purdy and Charles McPherson, hold portions of the site, he said.

"This is a loophole we did not contemplate" in the moratorium ordinance, Hotchner said in amazement, adding that the ordinance required moratorium procedures only for any "parcel, lot or area" exceeding two acres.

Bianchi said his aides had been told by city staff months ago that the project did not lie within the moratorium regulations. "If there's any fault, it's our staff's," said Councilman Miskimen.

After approving the project on a split vote — which in effect upheld planning commission approval — the council passed an emergency amendment to the moratorium ordinance making it applicable "irrespective of ownership" and asked staff to prepare an ordinance beefing up the city's parking requirements for development.

Lindenwood Landslide Threat Declared Nuisance By Council

The San Rafael City Council, in a move of little apparent significance, last night declared that a landslide looming above Lindenwood Court is a public nuisance, but declined to order abatement of the problem.

The decision, according to City Atty. Fred C. Robbins, has little legal clout and in effect places the situation in the hands of homeowners, since the council declined both to remove the slide or bring suit against New York-Cal Industrial Corp., the landowner.

The city, however, has the option of ordering abatement of the slide in the future, Robbins said.

Councilman Fred E. Jensen opposed even the public nuisance declaration, saying the matter belongs in the courts as a civil suit between homeowners and the landowner.

The mudslide, which might dwarf two previous flows, hangs precariously 700 feet above and 2,000 feet away from the end of Lindenwood Court, a cul-de-sac at the mouth of a ravine in the city's Glenwood neighborhood.

Local homeowners and the New York-Cal Industrial Corp. have blamed each other for the slide, as well as a poorly graded county fire road, the subdivider of the Lindenwood Court area and the Pacific Gas and Electric Co., which placed utility cables on the corporation land.

Attorneys for the corporation filed a legal brief on the situation which claims no nuisance exists and that the law allows homeowners to abate the problem without city action.

Richard R. Kuhn, representing homeowners, filed a brief claiming a public nuisance exists and that the city has the responsibility to abate the problem. The council, however, has refused to abate the slide for fear of accepting responsibility and concern over continuing liability.

Though Kuhn appeared last night, he made no mention of what action homeowners might take in seeking a solution to the looming slide.

Board Will Eye Year-Round School Schedule

A year-round schedule for Cherry Valley School will be considered at the Petaluma Board of Education meeting at 7 p.m. today at the administration building.

Parents and teachers at the school last week asked the board to approve a 45-15 schedule for classes to start July 30. Students would be in school for 45 days or nine weeks, followed by three weeks vacation.

The board will also hear a report from a committee studying the year-round schedule for the entire district.

The San Rafael City Council Also:

BUTLER — Passed a resolution welcoming home Capt. William W. Butler of San Rafael, a former POW who arrived at Travis Air Force Base Sunday after being released from North Vietnam. Butler, a pilot, was shot down in 1967.

EXPLORERS — Presented a charter to Boy Scout Explorer Post 321, which is sponsored by the San Rafael Fire Department.

LOCKWOOD DRIVE — Put over to April 16 consideration of a two-lot subdivision on Lockwood Drive.

CABLE TV — Said a license formerly granted to Tele-Vue Systems, Inc., a cable television company, extends to the area formerly encompassed by the Terra Linda Community Services District, an action which will net the city about $250 monthly in franchise fees.

BEDROOM TAX — Denied a request by William Moon that a 28-unit complex proposed for Myrtle Avenue and Glen Park be exempted from the city's "bedroom tax." Moon claimed his project should be exempted since it included on-site recreational facilities. The tax was levied to provide public recreational facilities, regardless of private facilities, the council said.

GENERAL PLAN — Appointed four nonresidents to the city's citizen advisory committee on the general plan: George L. Lagier of 8 Lowell Avenue, Northbridge; William Shoemaker, 107 Garden Avenue, Santa Venetia; Charles Roach, 613 Idylberry Road, Marinwood, and William B. Reiner, 77 Pikes Peak, Lucas Valley. The council said residents from the following "sphere of influence" areas may apply for committee seats before March 28: Los Ranchitos, San Rafael Meadows, Country Club, Bayside Acres and California Park.

FINAL MAPS — Approved final maps for Rafael Terrace Unit II and The Oaks in accordance with the city's subdivision ordinance.

SEWER — Extended to May 4 an agreement with Rodding-Cleaning Machines, Inc. for cleaning of city sewers.

ENCROACHMENT PERMITS — Granted an encroachment permit to Gar C. May for placement of planter boxes on the sidewalk fronting 901 B Street and a permit to Ethel Murphy for placement of planter boxes on the sidewalk along Fourth Street near F Street.

DESTRUCTION — Authorized city staff to destroy useless bank statements, financial records and obsolete documents over 5 years old, an action aimed at saving space at city hall.

CORPORATION YARD — Called for bids of a paint booth to be installed at the city corporation yard for painting of city vehicles. Estimated cost of the booth is $12,000, according to Councilman Fred E. Jensen.

CLAIMS — Denied a claim for $85 by Helen Buckley for damage done to her car in an accident involving a city vehicle, and a claim for $16 by Maria A. McKow-ski for a car tire damaged by a chuckhole.

LEAVE — Approved a leave of absence without pay for groundsman Otho Homas, who is ill.

PROMOTIONS — Promoted Michal Tompkins to fire captain and James Coffee to fire engineers at $1,091 monthly. The council also approved payment of $200 monthly to five student fire dispatchers.

REDEVELOPMENT — Agreed to meet in joint session at 7:30 p.m. April 2 with the Marin Community College District board in hopes of setting a suit the board has filed against the city's redevelopment plan.

INTERVIEWS — Announced four candidates for the post of administrative assistant to the city manager will be interviewed in closed session at 9:30 a.m. Saturday in city hall.

NEXT MEETING — Said the next regular meeting will be 7:30 p.m. April 2.

22-Year-Old Arrested In Drug Probe

San Rafael police, called on a disturbance last night at the Lincoln Hotel, arrested a 22-year-old man on a traffic warrant and then, after a search, on suspicion of having drug paraphernalia.

David Darl Chappelle of 805 Fourth Street, was booked into Marin County Jail on suspicion of possession of hypodermic needles, drug paraphernalia and a $48 traffic warrant. He was held in lieu of $250 bail to appear today in Marin Municipal Court.

According to police, they were called to the Lincoln Hotel about 10 p.m. because of a disturbance. They saw Chappelle and arrested him on the traffic warrant, even though the disturbance was over.

In searching Chappelle, police reported that they found five hypodermic needles, a syringe, spoon, rubber balloon and a white plastic container in his coat pocket.

SACRAMENTO ROUNDUP

Reinecke Determined To Run For Governor, Despite Paper

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke, describing himself as a philosophical disciple of Gov. Ronald Reagan, says he now is "more determined than ever" to run for governor after a new flap involving his office.

The Times reported Monday that two Reinecke aides— Morris E. Currey and Peter L. Tweedt—exerted pressure on the state Insurance Department to help a Los Angeles city commissioner, Mark L. Nathanson, who was being courted to work in Reinecke's gubernatorial campaign.

Nathanson was a member of a syndicate proposing to buy three insurance companies. The proposal ultimately collapsed because of the syndicate's own inaction.

Neither aide, Reinecke said, "did anything more than ask the insurance commission to speed up a decision."

Currey resigned last month after another Times story. It said Currey used his position as Reinecke's top aide to help a friend with a long arrest record obtain special favors, including a local concealed weapons permit and a police badge.

Reinecke said the Times was guilty of "yellow journalism" and "an incredible misuse of freedom of press." But "Californians are not dumb," he added. "With their support, I am more determined than ever to continue my career and to become a candidate for governsor."

Measles Test

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A bill temporarily putting aside a law requiring women to undergo a test for German Measles prior to getting married moved to the Assembly today after being unanimously passed in the Senate.

If approved by the legislature and signed by the governor, it would immediately delay the rubella test required until Jan. 1. The test was made mandatory under a law that became effective earlier this month.

Salmon Bill

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A bill creating an experimental four-year program aimed at enhancing commercial fishing of silver salmon in California has cleared its first committee hurdle.

The measure (AB358) by Assemblyman Barry Keene, D-Santa Rosa, was approved 5-0 by the Senate Natural Resources and Wildlife Committee Monday and sent to the Finance Committee.

The bill would delay by one month the annual commercial fishing season for silvers and reduce the minimum size requirement from 25 to 22 inches.

Governments Hit

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A powerful state lawmaker has suggested abolishing the system of city, county and district government in California.

To take its place, Assemblyman Willie L. Brown Jr., chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, urged creation of small community governments under the control of regional organizations.

Outlining his proposal before a Sacramento civic association Monday, the San Francisco Democrat said the overlapping jurisdictions of present local governments have resulted in "the feeling of frustration with and alienation from government so prevalent in our society."

Auto Tuneups

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Legislation forcing all car owners in the South Coast Air Basin of Southern California to have their autos tuned up at least once a year has been introduced by Sen. W. Craig Biddle, R-Riverside.

The Reagan administration bill (SB479), offered Monday, is designed to combat smog in the multi-county air basin. The state Air Resources Control Board estimates the measure would reduce auto emission by at least five per cent in the region.

Moe Appointed

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Gov. Ronald Reagan has appointed public works chief James A. Moe as the first director of the new, consolidated state Department of Transportation.

The new Transportation Department was created by the 1972 legislature, combining the old departments of public works, aeronautics and the Office of Transportation Planning and Research.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Cancer, Other Ills Are Rarely Found In Schizophrenic People

Schizophrenia is a group of mental diseases that have challenged psychiatrists for many decades. Over the centuries, this behavior has been known as lunacy, madness, and insanity. At one time, it was called dementia praecox because it was thought to occur only in younger people. It can, however, develop at any age, although it tends to begin in early adulthood.

The schizophrenic tends to retreat from society and withdraw into himself. There is an unpredictable disturbance in his stream of thought and speech. Ordinary problems are perplexing and associated with marked confusion. The catatonic-type schizoid may sit for hours in a stupid position without moving a muscle or showing the slightest emotion. Paranoids have a persecution complex or delusions of omnipotence, genius, or special ability. They also have hallucinations.

DISTURBED EMOTIONAL manifestations, such as anxiety, marked fear, excitement, panic, and depression are common. And there may be changes in social behavior and in the basic personality of the individual. Some neglect cleanliness and develop dreadful toilet habits.

The cause of schizophrenia is not known, but genetic and biochemical factors often are blamed. There is no doubt that the victims are extremely vulnerable to stress. The latter may be an inherited characteristic.

DR. ARTHUR M. Sackler, international publisher of Medical Tribune, recently wrote that schizophrenics rarely suffer or die from cancer. In addition, schizophrenics have fewer heart attacks than develop in the general population. Furthermore, they are usually spared the miseries of peptic ulcer, ulcerative colitis, and asthma. His theory is based on thousands of autopsies performed at mental institutions.

Dr. Sackler points out that LSD, a chemical capable of producing a temporary schizophrenic-like state, also is associated with some improvement in cancer patients. He has been observing this strange phenomenon for 20 years and hopes some researcher will follow it up.

Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the Independent-Journal.

FLUID BUILDUP

R.B. writes: Can anything besides heart and kidney disease cause an accumulation of fluid in the tissues?

REPLY

Yes. Among other causes are cirrhosis of theliver and glandular disorders such as thyroid deficiency. Our leaflet on generalized edema can be obtained by sending stamped, self-addressed envelope with request.

The moon is between its full phase and last quarter. The morning stars are Venus, Mars, Mercury and Jupiter.

Henrik Ibsen, Norwegian poet and dramatist, was born March 20, 1828.

Also on this day in history:

In 1852, Harriet Beecher Stowe's book "Uncle Tom's Cabin" about slavery was published for the first time. In 1951, Argentine dictator Juan Peron seized control of the opposition newspaper "La Prensa."

In 1963, a volcano on the island of Bali in the East Indies began erupting. The eventual death toll went over 1,000.

A thought for the day: Norwegian writer Henrik Ibsen said: "The spirit of truth and the spirit of freedom, they are the pillars of society."

Rohnert Park Council Approves Sewer Link

The Rohnert Park City Council last night agreed to a sewer connection request by the City of Cotati but only with assurances of cost-sharing.

The connection would extend the trunk main on Santa Rosa Avenue south between the freeway and Copeland Creek for connection with the Cotati Assessment District.

The line is over-sized now to accommodate the hookup, said City Mgr. Peter M. Callinan, because of an earlier request by Cotati for the possible connection.

Callinan said Cotati has already agreed to pay approximately $15,500 annually to share the cost of improvements to the sewage plant. He also suggested holding off on metering stations to determine the amount of use because Cotati flow is now minimal. Costs will be charged on a basic rate plus 15 per cent for administration fees, he said.

Cotati will be able to make further connections with various lines within Rohnert Park but the city may install meters depending on growth and the use of the 22.5 million gallon-per-day plant.

Cotati passed the $71,221 sewer assessment district last month after seven residents paid the preliminary engineering fees.

The Rohnert Park City Council Also:

ZONING — Passed a request by Codding Enterprises to zone 20 acres between South Santa Rosa Avenue and U.S. 101 a planned unit development.

CREEK — Adjourned until Friday at 4 p.m. for a study session to prepare bids for the Hinebaugh Creek Assessment District.

BIKE PATHS — Agreed to a policy of including bike paths in assessment districts for planned developments.

RETIREMENT — Called a public meeting in April to discuss the participation of council members in a retirement plan at a cost to the city of $759 annually.

WEEDS — Set April 2 for a public hearing on the annual weed abatement for property owners.

EXPRESSWAY — Certified the completion of the Rohnert Park Expressway West and directed the city engineer to file a notice of acceptance.

Salary Strategy Session Planned

The Novato Unified School District board will have a closed dinner session at 6 p.m. today at the Alvarado Inn to instruct its salary negotiators prior to the 8 p.m. board meeting at Novato High School lecture hall.

The negotiators meeting with the board will be Supt. James G. Bunker and Asst. Supt. Paul C. Mobley.

Patrick W. Pollock To Quit Board

Patrick W. Pollock, a member of the Marin County Board of Education for 10 years, has resigned and will not serve out of the remainder of his term which expires June 30.

Pollock's resignation will be announced at tonight's board meeting at 7:30 at Center Medical Hospital, Kentfield, when members will see the multihandicapped program in operation.

According to Robert E. Spain, assistant county superintendent, Pollock pleaded pressure of business in his resignation, and will not attend tonight's meeting. He is director of transportation and distribution for Fibreboard Corporation.

Pollock, who lives at 73 Angela Avenue, San Anselmo, was prevented from running for reelection to the county board in the April 17 elections because of redistricting.

The board could appoint a successor to serve out Pollock's remaining term, but this is not considered likely, said Spain.

Japanese Students Set Visit

Students of Lucas Valley School are preparing this week to hose 242 Japanese teen-agers who will visit the Marinwood campus Friday as part of a two-week tour of California.

The group, made up of 14 and 15-year-students from private Christian schools in Japan, is sponsored by Christian Hospitality International of Japan.

The Japanese contingent will arrive at noon for luncheon and will be entertained at 1 p.m. in the ampitheater by the school band and a group of students who will perform Japanese folk dances. The Japanese youths also are expected to perform. The program is open to the public, said Principal Patricia Barnes.

The visitors will be overnight guests in homes of Lucas Valley students Friday, leaving at 10 a.m. Saturday for San Louis Obispo.

"The students are very excited," said Mrs. Barnes. "This will be an opportunity for them to learn of Japanese culture and for the Japanese to learn about American culture."

The luncheon and show will include all 340 Lucas Valley students. Kindergarten students will attend from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m., staying for lunch.

Persons who may wish to host a Japanese student overnight, may contact the school, Mrs. Barns said.

The visit is sponsored by the school's home and school club.

Ellsberg Witness Hits Top Secrets

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The classification system has been so abused that foreign spymasters know better than to regard an American document as valuable just because it's stamped "top secret," according to an expert in security classifications.

The government has "ruined the integrity of the classification system," William G. Florence testified Monday in the Pentagon Papers trial of Daniel Ellsberg and Anthony Russo.

Florence retired from the government in 1971 after serving as Air Force deputy assistant for security and trade affairs, specializing in the classification of sensitive documents.

As the system is now practiced, he testified, the classification given a document, such as secret or top secret, "actually conveys no degree of knowledge as to the value of the information in those documents."

Foreign intelligence analysts, coming into possession of classified U.S. documents place no special significance on them because they "know the classification system in itself has been practiced without control," Florence said.

Florence, the 11th witness to be called in defense of Ellsberg and Russo, thus contradicted prosecution witnesses who said foreign intelligence organizations would place more value on the information in the Pentagon Papers, just because it was classified, than they would on the same information published in newspapers, books and other publicly available sources.

Part of the defense's strategy is to show that much of the information in the Papers had already been made public elsewhere.

Ellsberg and Russo are charged with espionage theft and conspiracy. To prove espionage, the most serious of the charges, the government must show release of the information would have harmed the national security.

Compromise On Drainage Costs Sought

The advisory board of the Ross Valley Flood Control Zone will meet tomorrow at 3:30 p.m. at Corte Madera town hall to consider a compromise drainage plan for the Town of Ross.

Ross and the County of Marin have been arguing in court over who should pay to correct flood problems on Ross Common and Sir Francis Drake Boulevard.

Ross contends the county should pay for an estimated $350,000 worth of work, while the county has said it's committed to spend only $60,000.

County flood control engineer Charles E. Murphy said Wednesday's meeting will consider a compromise plan that lies somewhere between the two figures in an attempt to satisfy both parties.

New Consumer Protection Agency Remains On Paper

WASHINGTON (UPI) — One week from today, responsibility for protecting consumers from faulty products is supposed to pass into the hands of a new agency.

There will be no change, however. The Consumer Product Safety Commission still exists only on paper—five months after President Nixon signed the law creating it and called its formation a milestone. It has neither offices, staff nor administrators.

The law said the commission, to be headed by five persons appointed by the President, would take on its responsibilities 150 days after the law was signed. That date is March 27.

But it also provided that if the commissioners had not been appointed by that time, the agency would not start operating until three of the five members had been named.

That left the President an open end to make his choices and, despite constant reports that he has reached a decision, there are no signs the White House is about to move on the matter.

"There is no doubt but that Congress intended March 27 to be the effective date," one Senate source said. He added that there were moves underway to try to draft legislation to force the President to make his choices.

Sirhan's Brother Held For Threat

PASADENA (UPI) — Sharif B. Sirhan, 39, older brother of Sirhan B. Sirhan, convicted assassin of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, was arrested Monday and charged with mailing a death threat against Israeli Premier Golda Meir to Secretary of State William P. Rogers.

Sirhan was charged under a federal extortion statute carrying a maximum penalty of 20 years in prison, the FBI said. The FBI said the letter was mailed to Rogers Feb. 18. Details of its contents were not disclosed. The younger Sirhan is serving a life prison sentence in San Quentin for the killing of Kennedy in 1968.

Clemente Named To Baseball's Hall Of Fame

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (UPI) — Roberto Clemente, the Pittsburgh Pirates' superstar killed on a New Year's eve mercy flight, was elected overwhelmingly today to the baseball hall of fame.

His widow, Vera, who flew here from Puerto Rico for this occasion, stood by as the announcement was made of Clemente's induction by a special election of the baseball writers association of America.

Clemente became the sixth player enshrined this year and the 140th since the hall admitted its first members in 1936. But he is the first to be elected under such tragic circumstances.

It has been barely 11 weeks since his death.

"It's not the same for me," Mrs. Clemente said. "It can't be the same after what's happened.

"After we lost him, I tried to do my best, take care of the children. But life is not the same."

Clemente received 393 "yes" votes on the 424 ballots cast by ten-year members of the BBWAA. There were 29 "nos" and two abstentions. A 75 per cent majority, or 318 votes, was needed for his induction.

"I feel proud and happy," Mrs. Clemente said. "for me this is a great thing, not so much personally, but for Latin American ball players."

The announcement came at a news conference in St. Petersburg, about 40 miles north of the Pirates' Bradenton training camp — where the street that runs by the Pittsburgh complex was being renamed Roberto Clemente Memorial Way today.

Officially, the purpose was to announce the results of the special yes-or-no Hall of Fame vote on Clemente's candidacy, but the fact of his election was not one of baseball's best-kept secrets.

Some voting members of the Baseball Writers Association of America, resenting the unseemly haste with which Clemente was pushed, objected. But the protests were mild and most overlooked them in the face of Clemente's overwhelming credentials.

He becomes only the second player admitted to the baseball shrine without the customary five-year waiting period, and the first since a dying Lou Gehrig was elected by acclamation in 1939.

Clemente died with four other men in the crash of an old, propeller-driven DC-7 airplane in which they were ferrying supplies from Puerto Rico to earthquake victims in Managua, Nicaragua.

The plane, delayed several times before takeoff, crashed into the ocean near the San Juan Airport. Clemente's body never has been recovered.

Clemente, who was 38 at his death, won four National League batting titles—in 1961, 1964, 1965 and 1967. He averaged .317 for his career, won the gold glove for fielding excellence a dozen times, was the league's Most Valuable Player in 1966 and the outstanding player in the 1971 World Series.

His final regular season hit in 1972 was his 3,000th. Only 10 other players ever got that many.

Although many players are long finished at age 38, Clemente appeared only to be reaching new peaks of stardom when he died.

In the three years before 1972, he batted in succession, .345, .352 and .341, having some of his finest seasons. He hit .312 in 1972 when he was bothered by injuries.

But Clemente's finest moment, by far, was the '71 World Series. He batted .414, hit safely in every game, homered to start Pittsburgh's seventh-game victory and was brilliant defensively.

The performance earned Clemente the national recognition he claimed long had been denied him because he was Puerto Rican. When it was over, he said, "I finally have peace of mind."

"Now, everyone knows the way Roberto Clemente plays," he said at the time. "I believe I'm the best player in baseball today ... and I'm glad I was able to show it against Baltimore in the Series."

Mrs. Clemente and Commissioner Kuhn were to present another award today, too, an honor newly named for Clemente to the "player who best exemplifies the game of baseball on and off the field."

Although the award was instituted in 1971, it never previously had a name. Willie Mays won it the first year and Brooks Robinson last year.

The formal induction ceremonies for Clemente and five others named to the Hall of Fame earlier this year— Warren Spahn, Monte Irvin, and oldtimers Mickey Welch, George "Highpockets" Kelly and umpire Billy Evans—will be held Aug. 6 at Cooperstown, N.Y.

Clemente did not live to see one of his fondest dreams realized—creation of a "Sports City" for Puerto Rican youth. But hundreds of thousands of dollars in donations since his death assure the facility will be constructed.

A Great Message For All Parents

Peter Woolfolk was a very talented swimmer who died before he had a chance to reach his prime. He was 16 when he fell to his death from a cliff near his home in San Jacinto in Southern California.

He was painting his high school's letters on some rocks high on a cliff with some friends, part of a school spirit thing, when he slipped and fell. It was Jan. 25. On Jan. 26 he was going to move to San Rafael to live with the Dale E. Walter family in Peacock Gap so he could work out with coach Don Swartz and the Marin Aquatic Club. He would have been practicing with Olympians Rick DeMont and Robin Backhaus.

A SWIMMER WHO excelled in the individual medley and backstroke, Peter was ranked in the national Top 10 for the 15-17 age group. The youngest of four children of Mr. and Mrs. Alan W. Woolfolk, Peter never had his chance to be a real star. Death has a way of stopping plans in midstream when it so chooses.

Woolfolk's father wrote a letter to Swartz and it contained a very fine message. It's a letter which was passed on to me and eventually found this space in the I-J. I think it is quite a letter. You judge for yourself:

"Dear Don:

"Your kind, sincere message to us is greatly appreciated. Our sense of loss weighs heavily at times and expressions from you and the team are comforting.

"I HOPE THIS LETTER to you, Don, can convey a message that will be meaningful to you, your swimmers and their parents.

"Because we had so little time to talk I never had the opportunity to tell some things about the young man you were to have in your charge.

"I think it is important to know that Peter, not even as a young swimmer, was a natural. He simply loved the sport and the association with the people involved in it. He learned at an early age that winning was not the ultimate goal, the real reward for effort and dedication came from knowing he was doing his best and each improvement was a victory. He knew there is a distinct difference between wishing and goal setting. He set his goals with the full realization that they could only be achieved through hard work and dedication and the responsibility was his and his alone.

"FOR THAT REASON he sought and gained help from his coach, his teammates and his friends. In return he tried to contribute unselfishly in kind. He believed that this applied not only to athletics but to the total growth and happiness of living.

"Peter achieved a remarkable success in this philosophy and wanted very much for all, young and old, to know that this was possible.

"Don, it was my privilege to be very closely associated with this young man and he taught me much. I sincerely hope that parents can realize if they will make the very small sacrifice of self sublimation long enough to give love, understanding, guidance, and encouragement to the many young people of this world they will be rewarded by an untainted wisdom that can come only from the uncluttered mind of some very wise children.

Sincerely,
Alan W. Woolfolk"

Tourney Wins For Alabama, Minnesota

NEW YORK (UPI) — Bear Bryant, Alabama's football coach and athletic director, postponed the start of spring football practice for two days just so he could attend the Crimson Tide's first round game with Manhattan in the National Invitation Tournament —the first time Alabama has been in post-season basketball action.

The Bear was rewarded for his trip to New York when 6-foot-8 forward Glenn Garrett sank a 25-foot shot at the buzzer to give the Tide an 87-86 victory over Manhattan in the second game of Monday night's doubleheader. Minnesota took advantage of a mysterious slowdown by Rutgers late in the first half to defeat the Scarlet Knights 68-59 in the first contest.

The quarterfinal pairings for tonight find Notre Dame (16-11) meeting Louisville (23-6) and Massachusetts (20-6) facing 12th-ranked North Carolina (23-7). Thursday night's quarterfinal matchups are Virginia Tech (19-5) and Fairfield (18-8) in the first game, followed by the game between Monday night winners Minnesota, now 21-4, and Alabama, 21-6.

"I could tell it was heading in the general direction of the basket," Garrett said. "I thought it would be close. I was very surprised and very glad."

C.M. Newton, the Tide's basketball coach, said, "we didn't want that kind of shot. But I didn't want a timeout because of the pressure of getting the pass in bounds."

"We liked the tempo of the game tonight," Minnesota Coach Bill Musselman said after the Gophers' triumph. "When we control the tempo, we're tough to beat."

Musselman's squad appeared in the NIT for th first time, like Alabama. It had been scheduled for better things—namely, the NCAA championships as the Big Ten titlist but the Gophers lost their last two games to Iowa and Northwestern and let Indiana slip by them for the conference crown.

AP Gives Walton Top Honor

NEW YORK (AP) — Bill Walton, the superman of UCLA's super team, was named today the Associated Press' college basketball Player of the Year for the second straight season.

The 6-foot-11 center known as the "Big Red Machine" and ringleader of the "Walton Gang" won in a breeze over a rich field of the nation's best.

"He is the best ... better than Bill Russell," said one opposing coach.

"He is the best pivotman ever to play college ball," said another.

He was at least the most dominating force on the nation's most dominating team. Walton figured in every one of UCLA's 26 victories during the regular season, continuing a personal streak of playing with undefeated teams.

By the end of the regular season, Walton's streak from high school reached an astronomical 120 games.

Warriors' Attendance Up; Take On Seattle Tonight

OAKLAND (UPI) — The Golden State Warriors attendance is a little higher this season, which means quite a bit more money in the till for the team.

Going into tonight's 8 o'clock contest at the Coliseum Arena with Seattle, the Warriors have averaged 6,171 spectators per home contest. Last season the figure was 5,818 fans, including six home games mysteriously played in San Diego.

But the Warriors have charged more for tickets, too, with a $6 top instead of a $5. So receipts are up a lot.

Warrior owner Franklin Mieuli is always optimistic about his team, but might have some justification when he says "we're starting to go now. We were dead last in the NBA attendance last year and we've moved up several places. We'll do more promoting next year and we'll have a better team, too."

The Warriors, who have cinched a playoff spot, need to figure out how to stop Spencer Haywood of the Sonics tonight. He has scored 42, 35, 34 and 29 points against them. In addition, he needs only 68 rebounds to reach 1,000. That would make him only the eighth player in the last 14 seasons to hit 2,000 points and 1,000 rebounds the same campaign.

Warrior center Nate Thurmond is expected to start after sitting out a Saturday loss to New York with an injury, but backup man George Johnson should have plenty of game time again, too.

It's been a frantic week all around for Thurmond, who also opened his restaurant in the city's Fillmore District, which he calls "The Beginning." On opening night, a waiter didn't show and proprietor Thurmond had to fill in.

Thurmond said he wanted to open a restaurant so that his grandmother could exhibit her prowess as a cook of soul food, but she died. The restaurant is named in her honor. "She was the beginning of my family," Thurmond said.

Thurmond thinks he has found another outstanding chef and is pouring every spare moment into his new eatery.

"This is something I plan to stay in a long time, and I'm only going to be in pro basketball another two years," he says.

Tibblin-Mayes Team Captures Mint 400

LAS VEGAS (UPI) — Swedish-born Rolf Tibblin teamed with 18-year-old Mitch Mayes of Palmdale, Calif., Monday to capture his second consecutive Mint 400 motorcycle victory over rugged southern Nevada and Southern California desert terrain.

Several hundred four-wheel vehicles will follow the tracks of the motorcycles Tuesday, covering the 200-mile course twice. Leading the list of entries is former Indianapolis 500 winner Parnelli Jones, still looking for his first Mint finish in six tries. Also in the field are George Schaffer of San Rafael and his son, Bill.

Tibblin, 35, Escondido, Calif., shared equally the two-lap, 200-mile course with Mayes on a 400-cubic centimeter Hasqvarna. The pair completed the race in 8:09.03 for a 48-mile per hour average and $6,600 in prize money.

Second overall and first in the 250-cubic centimeter class on a 250 Yamaha were Las Vegas riders Jack Johnson and Dave Laca. They were timed in 8:21.37, less than two minutes better than third place Tom Smith, Bakersfield, Calif., and Jerome Ruzicka of Mission Hills, Calif., riding a Yamaha.

Seventy-three motorcycles were entered into the competition. Leon Knox, 51, Northridge, Calif., not an official entrant, was flown to Southern Nevada Memorial Hospital by helicopter with a severely lacerated right arm. His right hand was amputated.

Others who were treated for injuries included Kip Melland, 23, Las Vegas, who suffered a broken shoulder; Donald Nelson, 31, Sylmar, Calif., treated and released with a broken arm; Craig Boyd, 16, Yuma, Ariz.; Donald Whittington, 27; Steve Hurd, 29, Montebello, Calif.; Terry Clark, 19, Lake Hughes, Calif.

Tognoli's Big Debut In Racing

The 26-year-old Fairfax resident, piloting a powerboat for the first time, Saturday won the 178-mile Mission Bay Midwinter Offshore Classic near San Diego by some three and a half minutes in his twin-engine, 36-foot Dante's Inferno I.

With a crew including navigator Tom Schahill of San Rafael, Tognoli whipped a field of 15 foes including his father Dante, 65, of Oakland, who was in fifth place until being disqualified for missing a check point.

The younger Tognoli led the race all the way, and after the first 12 miles was so far ahead his crew was unable to spot the rest of the field behind him.

Tognoli averaged 68 miles per hour on the long-figure-eight course hugging the coastline, despite being confronted with rough water swells of as much as 10 feet.

The other member of Tognoli's crew was Willie Myers of Nassau.

Miss Walsh Idle

AKRON, Ohio (UPI) — Sharon Walsh of San Rafael, who is not required to qualify, was idle today as 32 women, including Carole Graebner of New York City, were to play off for four berths in the $25,000 Akron Tennis Open, scheduled to get underway Thursday.

All News Not Good From Giants' Camp

PHOENIX (UPI) — The Cactus League record book shows that San Francisco beat Cleveland here 7-4 but there was gloom in the Giants camp today.

That's because while Dave Kingman was leading the varsity to the win Monday, the "B" team fell 9-3 to Milwaukee as two pitchers from whom the Giants need good years got belted hard.

Frank Reberger and Sam McDowell, trying to bounce back after injury-ridden 1972 seasons, were clobbered by the Brewers, who are far from baseball's biggest belters.

When McDowell, who had a shoulder injury, tried to throw the hummer that tore up the American League not so long ago, it repeatedly sailed too high—way out of the strike zone.

McDowell seemed relaxed about his performance, however, and said the fast ball would be just where he wanted it by the time the season rolled around.

Jim Willoughby and Jim Barr, two more guys who will be pitching more than their share this summer, meanwhile combined to give the Tribe just one earned marker.

The three other Cleveland runs scored when Kingman, playing at third base, fumbled a grounder that should have been a double play.

But Kingman at least broke out of his slump at the plate as he ripped two lengthy doubles for only his third and fourth hits of the spring.

FIRST APPEARANCE

Blue Impressive Against Brewers

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

The key to Vida Blue seems to be green.

Blue, still holding out for more money, made his first pitching appearance yesterday in a 5-4 Oakland loss to Milwaukee and was swamped with the usual questions about when, where and if he would sign a 1973 contract.

A newsman asked him if he would play for the Texas Rangers, to whom he is being rumored to be traded, and Blue responded "I don't care where I play. I'd play for you (the newsman) if you had the money."

"Vida threw the hell out of the ball," Williams said, despite the fact that he gave up Milwaukee's winning run on a single to Johnny Briggs and a double to Joe Lahoud in the fifth inning. That gave the Brewers a 5-2 lead.

But those were the only hits and the only run scored against Blue, who pitched the middle three innings and struck out two.

Rookie outfielder Gorman Thomas hit a 400-foot homer in the opening inning off Ken Holtzman to give Milwaukee a 1-0 lead and capped a three-run third inning by the Brewers with a two-run single.

FISH AND GAME

By AL GIDDINGS

Hunters Are Not Outdoor Killers

Recently in Reader's Digest was an article called, "A Whale for the Killing." It is an account of what happened to a whale which had become trapped in a lagoon on the southwest coast of Newfoundland. The trapped whale became the target of most of the residents of the small town of Bergeo. The whale was shot, rocked, chased by boats, and lanced until finally it died of its wounds and probably starvation. It is a grizzly tale.

I received a copy of the article from an anonymous reader who also writes:

"MR. GIDDINGS: This condensed story in a recent Reader's Digest just might have a message for you. I do not think that you could deny the fact that many of your readers would act just as did these thoughtless clods with their rifles. Your so-called 'hunting fraternity' is made up of cowards . . . bringing down helpless animals at a safe distance with 30-06's . . . and calling it sport. Just as the mental retards did in this sad story. You cater to these same thinking jerks in your column, and make them feel important in what they do. If this story doesn't turn your stomach . . . then you are really one of them."

The article and the letter both grieve me. Being a conservation officer for 25 years, writing conservation articles all through these years, and an I-J fish and game column the last four years, plus having associated with hunters and fishermen all my life, I feel the sportsman is always unjustly accused of anything that happens in the outdoors when a gun is used. Sometimes it's a wonder that the robbers and murderers using guns aren't also classified as hunters.

IF I CAN but make the point that true sportsmen — hunters and fishermen — are legally licensed by the state to hunt and fish for the species of game regulated by experts of the government. All of the funds used by the government are derived from the sale of hunting and fishing licenses for the protection and perpetuation of the different species of fish and game. The hunter legally hunts and takes and uses the game he hunts. To say as the anonymous letter writer does, that "your so called 'hunting fraternity' is made up of cowards" just like the mental retards in the whale account; and, that I "cater to these same thinking jerks in the column" is assinine.

The comparisons of hunter to people who carry guns and commit wholesale destruction is ludicrous and unfair. To connive and suggest, and write that this is the case, is a lie, and would only be done by an uninformed person — perhaps one who talks and writes from anonymity without recourse to debate. That's why I am answering this letter.

I HAVE HUNTED and fished all my life. When I was five years old, I caught my first fish — a chub in Papermill Creek. At nine, my dad brought me a .410 gauge shotgun. With both the rod and the gun, the highest points of my boyhood hunting and fishing life was when I brought home some legally caught fish or game, and I would ask my mom if it was enough for a meal. If the answer was a proud yes, then I felt "big" for that day. I had contributed to the family existence. Later it might have been a quail or a duck and even a deer. It was legal; it was part of the family economy; it was promoted by the government agencies in charge of the fish and game; it was a part of county life.

Today, my entire family goes to the mountains for a month each year. It brings a togetherness that's nonexistent in other ways of this life. It's the hikes, the campfire, the outdoors cooking, the mountains, the lakes, the stars and the "get-away-from-it-all" that's great.

GETTING A DEER is secondary. There is no great jubilation that we have killed a deer; if there is anything, it might be the thoughts that we shall have some excellent meals. No nongame animals are ever shot, they are part of the scene, but to use the deer as food, we have been taught and brought up that this was the right way. We feel it is the right way. We feel no guilt, we mean no harm, but it grieves us to have persons associate us with wanton killers or distructors of nature. When one picks a flower, the thoughts are not of killing it, the thoughts are of the beauty to be brought home.

SO I SAY TO you, anonymous writer, call us, or go to the mountains with us and learn about what you so criticize. Here is a small part of the nature scene for you to think about. Twenty years ago about six axis deer were planted in the area now known as the Point Reyes National Seashore. Today, even though the animals were hunted over the past 20 years, the herd has increased to approximately 1,000 animals.

The problem of this herd continually reproducing will be an acute problem for the park people, with no hunting to control the population explosion which is getting ready to really explode. What would be your solution? If it's decided by the government to take some of the animals by hunting — does that make the hunters cowards and mental retards?

Johnny Bench belted a homer off Boston's Marty Pattin and rookie outfielder Gene Locklear hit a double to pace Cincinnati's victory over the Red Sox. Gary Nolan, starting for the first time this spring, and Jack Billingham teamed up to stop the Red Sox on seven hits. Nolan complained of some soreness in his right arm after pitching three innings during which he gave up one unearned run.

Bernie Carbo, who was batting .056 this spring, collected four hits and Jose Cruz drove in three runs as St. Louis whipped Philadelphia.

Trevino Holds Earnings Lead

NEW YORK (UPI) — Jim Colbert's win in the Greater Jacksonville Open golf moved him to 15th on the money-won list, but leader Lee Trevino still held the top spot secure although he passed up the Jacksonville event.

Bruce Crampton, tied for seventh at Jacksonville, cut into Trevino's lead, his $3,549 check moving him up to $94,985 to Trevino's $98,543. Jack Nicklaus, tied for 26th in the tournament Colbert won, picked up $903 for a third place slot on the list with $68,401.

Colbert's earnings for the year are now $30,250.

Golfer Dies After Firing Hole-In-One

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Only minutes after driving a hole-in-one in a senior citizens golf tournament Raymond Miller, 68, collapsed and died of a heart attack, the coroner's office said Monday.

Miller, who retired last year from the Fish and Game Department after 20 years service as a state employe, made the hole-in-one on the par-three sixth hole of the Lindale Golf Course Saturday.

He played out the par-four seventh hole and then collapsed on the eighth tee. Fire department efforts to revive him failed and he was pronounced dead on arrival at the Sacramento Medical Center.

Miller, who spent part of his younger years as a newsman in California and New Mexico, was playing in the Lindale Senior Men's Golf Club tournament when he was stricken.

WOODEN:

Expects Walton To Return

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — John Wooden, who said last week that he'd be back at UCLA next season, has some more bad news for the rest of the college basketball world.

He expects Bill Walton to ignore the pro game's millions and return for his senior year with the Bruins.

"All indications are that Bill plans on being back in school," Wooden told the Southern California basketball writers Monday. "That's what various friends of his have said and that's the indication I have from Bill himself.

"He's a most unusual young man. In addition to his tremendous ability as a basketball player, he's an unusual young man in every respect. I think that within some of us there's a bit of acting, perhaps, at times. There's no put-on about Bill. You know where he stands, what he is.

"I really believe he is at this particular moment probably less interested in material things than most anybody in this room. This is sometimes almost difficult to understand."

At St. Louis Saturday and Monday, UCLA will be seeking to win its seventh straight NCAA title and ninth in 10 years.

Wooden admitted he could be wrong about his 6-11 superstar's plans for the future.

"I know that he's at an age (20) where he can be very changeable and could change his mind. In that case, certainly no one at UCLA would try to influence him in any way, realizing the monetary possibilities he's going to have.

"It's just a decision that he will have to make on his own but all indications in my opinion are that he will be back."

Seals To Face The Islanders In New York

UNIONDALE, N.Y. (UPI) — the California Golden Seals start the last six games of a disappointing 1972-73 campaign here tonight when they face the only team in the National Hockey League with a worse record than theirs.

In fact, the Seals' 12 wins and the New York Islanders 10 triumphs combined still wouldn't be enough to land in the playoffs of either division.

From here, the Seals go to Pittsburgh Wednesday and return home for a Friday night matchup with Toronto and a Sunday battle with Detroit.

Then they go to Los Angeles to meet the Kings March 28 and close out their season with another battle with the Kings March 30.

Among those receiving support from the nation's sports writers and broadcasters were David Thompson of North Carolina State; Ed Ratleff of Long Beach; Kermit Washington of American University; Providence's Ernie DiGregorio; Doug Collins of Illinois State; Dwight Lamar of Southwestern Louisiana and Minnesota's Jim Brewer.

Walton, of course, was also selected to the AP's 1973 All-America team.

Joining the talented giant on the first team were Thompson, Ratleff, Washington and DiGregorio.

Federal Charges Filed Against Steelers' Holmes

Combined AP & UPI

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio — Federal charges were filed today against Pittsburgh Steelers defensive tackle Ernie Holmes, who has already been charged with shooting at trucks near here and shooting and wounding a police helicopter pilot.

The FBI filed charges of destruction of interstate property because the trucks were engaged in interstate commerce.

Holmes, on Monday, pleaded innocent to three counts of assault with intent to kill and was freed on $45,000 bond following his arraignment in Mahoning County court in nearby Austintown.

His attorney said the 6-3, 250-pound football player would be taken to a Pittsburgh hospital "where he will stay for an indefinite time."

The FBI said he would probably be arraigned on the federal charges in Cleveland when released from the hospital.

McMahon's Book On Giant Pitching

PHOENIX — Don McMahon has a little black book. In it he has logged every pitch thrown thus far in Cactus League competition by the Giant pitching staff which is under his full time direction this year.

Can McMahon really recall each pitch or does he merely record them for statistical reasons?

"I can tell you every pitch, ball or strike, and what happened," said McMahon.

IT WAS A matter-of-fact statement. McMahon saw nothing unusual about being able to recall every pitch thrown in a game.

"It becomes second nature to you after years of pitching," said the 43-year-old veteran who served as pitcher-coach last season.

"The pitchers who concentrate never have any trouble recalling every pitch they made in a game. Now, as coach it's my job to keep tab on all pitches."

AS YET, McMahon hasn't missed not pitching personally for the first time in 16 major league seasons during which he appeared in 843 games, all but two of them as a reliever.

"I may miss it later on," said McMahon, "but I've been so busy I haven't had time to think about not pitching. We have more pitchers in camp than I'm used to working with during the regular season and I've been throwing a lot of batting practice."

There was a 72-hour period a week ago when McMahon threw no batting practice and, in fact, nobody else did either.

"I'VE NEVER seen such rain and hail in Arizona," said McMahon. "The three rainouts created a backlog of missed pitching assignments for us."

What effect did the rainouts have on his pitching staff?

"The young pitchers were the ones who felt it most," said McMahon. "When the rains stopped we had to go with our established pitchers to get them ready for the regular season.

"Our younger pitchers won't get as much exposure as we'd like but we'll schedule several B games so they'll get work."

THIS SEASON the Giants plan to carry 10 pitchers, same as in past years. There are five starters and five in the bullpen crew. The starters: Juan Marichal, Sam McDowell, Tom Bradley, Jim Willoughby and Ron Bryant. The relievers: Jim Barr, Randy Moffitt, Frank Reberger, Elias Sosa and John Morris. That's the pitching setup as it looks now. It could change.

If one of the starters falter, Barr or Reberger will move into a front line role. If one of the present bullpen quintet falters, Don Carrithers hopes to be ready.

CARRITHERS IS far from eliminated in the battle for a pitching berth but he got off to an unlucky start in his first spring assignment. After two innings he was forced out of action with an aching back.

It was the first time Carrithers ever had to leave a game for any reason other than being kayoed.

I've never had a sore arm or injury that put me out of action," said Carrithers.

His back ailment, while very painful, wasn't serious. It was a severe muscle spasm that unkinked itself after two days of whirlpool treatment.

Drag Boat Racer Dies Of Injuries

Caselli, 39, of Reseda, Calif., former world record holder in the blown fuel flatbottom class, was thrown from the boat, "Panic Mouth," when it became airborne seconds after crossing the finish line.

"He was in trouble just through the (finish) lights, said Dione Williams, executive secretary of the California Drag Boat Association.

"We think he broke his rudder, then he started chining (the boat riding on its side), then nosed in.

"He was thrown clear, but it was the way he hit the water that killed him. He was wearing a helmet, but he hit on his neck," Mrs. Williams said.

Caselli died at Alameda Hospital Sunday night, five hours after the accident at Oakland Marine Stadium during the American powerboat spring national championships.

The Alameda County Coroner's office said an autopsy showed that Caselli died of shock, hemorrhage and blunt trauma caused by the accident.

A Push For Bay Area Pro Golf

By RON LENT

It's a true love affair. Romeo and Juliet, Samson and Delilah, John Farr and golf.

Although the last-named pair are least known to romance followers, certainly the Farr-golf relationship is readily recognized by Bay Area golf club pros — particularly in Marin County.

In fact, Rob McQuade, club pro at Peacock Gap in San Rafael, is helping Farr's passionate affair with the game. On Feb. 1, Farr, a San Franciscan, was reading a newspaper account of a Western Golf Tournament Association function when he conceived the idea of forming a WGTA-style golf tour in the Bay Area for club pros.

He approached McQuade with the thought, and the Marinite responded with a suggestion: "Why don't you set it up as a one-day affair? That way, players would not jeopardize their jobs."

Farr, a former pro at San Francisco's Lincoln Park, added that to his plot of matching the success formula of the WGTA, headquartered in Anaheim.

Farr's plan calls for at least a 40-man field to play 36-holes at different Bay Area courses. "You drive to the course, play, pick up some $3,000 for winning and drive home. What could be simpler?"

One item that is, indeed, not simple: funding. Farr needs 40 players to "break even," and he has 36 in line. Costs are: $1,500 to play in five tourneys, $3,000 for 10, $4,500 for 15, and $6,000 for 20. However, Farr says: "The money comes from sponsors. Sponsors can write it off. If the golfer doesn't make it, too bad. If he does, the sponsor and the golfer can sit down and talk about the future.

"These tourneys will give the young golfer a break. If he wins a few of these tournaments, he can begin to develop a name for himself."

Farr realizes that the player's first obligation is to his club job. "I know that and that is why our format is so exciting. We play it all in one day, primarily on Thursdays. And Thursday could be the golfer's day off from his job. Plenty of the pros and assistants enjoy playing golf on their days off."

McQuade agrees with Farr. I like to play golf on my day off. I'm interested in one day of fun a week in competitive golf. This will help me dust off my game. I like the idea of playing. I will be playing just for the fun of it, not for the money."

Farr will also be playing "just for the fun of it. We're going to play now regardless. I enjoy it, and, apparently, so do the other fellows. They like it for many reasons — including the fact that it won't jeopardize their jobs."

JOHN FARR
High hopes

McQuade stresses the importance of fulfilling his job duties before embarking on the golf circuit. "My first responsibility is to Peacock Gap. I wouldn't jeopardise my job for any pot of gold."

Regarding job priorities, Jeff McAndrew, pro at Indian Valley Golf Club, points out: "I'm not in it, because it is pretty expensive. Another problem with it is you have to work at the golf game at the expense of your job duties."

Marin club pros and assistants who have expressed interest in the tourney tour all emphasized their first responsibility is to their job. McQuade summarizes the pervading feeling when he says: "There will be times when job responsibilities will prevent me from playing in a tourney. That's fine."

Other Marinites who have shown interest in the program are Wayne Wallick, San Geronimo pro, Larry Babica, Meadow Club assistant in Fairfax, and Paul Fakundiny, Marin Country Club assistant in Novato.

Fakundiny says: "I'm thinking about joining, but 36 holes in one day is a long grind . . . it takes a lot out of you."

Babica states that he is "very excited about it. It should be a great training ground to see how you would do in stiff competition. It is long overdue. I hope it goes over well."

So does Farr who has invested some $5,000 already in just two months in organizing his plan. Monies went for printing, mailings, phone bills and secretarial assistance. Although he could take a financial blood bath, Farr is convinced the idea will go over and "we'll play whether or not we have our 40. This is one way we can keep our Bay Area pros together and expose them to crowds and contacts in their own area."

The spring schedule, which has 10 events from April 2 to June 25, will include stops at Peacock Gap on April 19 and May 31, Indian Valley on May 17, and San Geronimo on April 12 and May 10, according to Farr's printed schedule.

Additionally, he has been in contact with two golf notables: Novato's Ray Leach and former touring pro Bob Bolt, pro at Franklin Canyon, near Martinez.

Farr asserts that "Bolt is behind this thing 100 per cent," and Leach "has our material and forms but has yet to return them."

Archibald Reaches 1,000-Point Mark

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — Nate Archibald hit for 37 points Monday night to lead the Kansas City-Omaha Kings to a 106-105 victory over Portland and in the process set a record which "he didn't even know about."

Archibald became the first guard in National Basketball Association history to score more than 1,000 goals in one season —he now has 1,011.

Archibald joins a select group of players who have tallied over 1,000— Wilt Chamberlain, Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, Rick Barry and Elgin Baylor.

Archibald, sitting alone in the dressing room after the game, said, "I'm tired of hearing about all these broken records. I wish they would just let me play. I didn't even know about this one."

Kansas City-Omaha had a 10-point advantage midway through the final period, but Portland's Sidney Wicks hit 10 of his 26 points in the late going to wipe out the Kings' bulge.

Wicks, however, missed a chance to tie when he sank only one of two free throws with 18 seconds left. Wicks fouled Archibald with five seconds remaining and Nate, who shoots 85 per cent at the line, fanned the Trail Blazers' hopes by missing both shots.

In the only other pro basketball game played Monday night, Milwaukee clinched its third successive NBA Midwest Division crown, defeating Detroit 118-99.

Kareem Abdul-Jabbar scored 27 points and Oscar Robertson had 25 for the Bucks, who won their ninth straight.

Cost Differences In Stocks Puzzling

By ROGER E. SPEAR

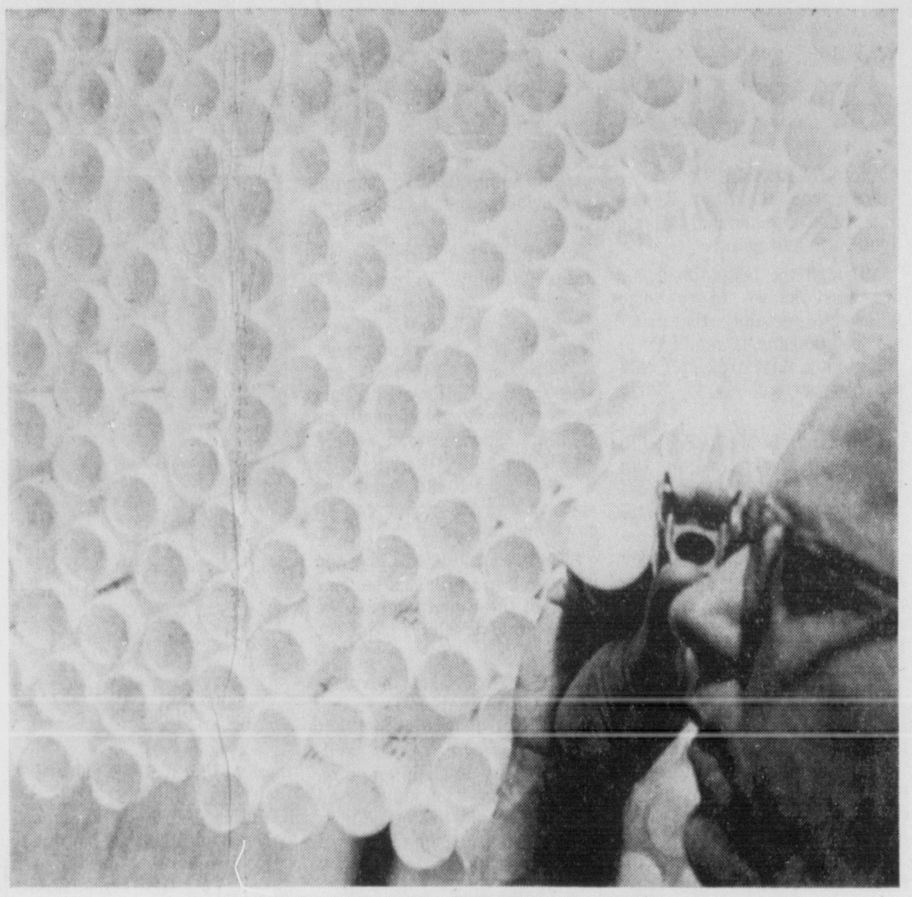
Q. I have just purchased shares of Uniroyal (NYSE) at 13⅜, which afford me a 5.2 per cent return based on the 70 cents a share annual dividend. The price-earnings ratio is 8 times. Why is it that Goodrich (NYSE) and Goodyear (NYSE), returning under 4 per cent, sell for twice as much per share as Uniroyal? — L.W.

A. Market evaluations are based primarily on earnings expectations — often for a year or more in the future. Thus, the most equitable method for comparing such values is with price/earnings multiples, i.e., the share price divided by earnings per share. Goodyear, which has a 10 per cent annual average compound growth record for the last five years, is trading at 9.5 times projected 1973 earnings.

However, this may rise before the year is out, reflecting the company's well-publicized entry into the steel-belted radial tire market. Goodrich, with its erratic earnings pattern and a 6 per cent, five-year average annual profits growth rate, is accorded a ratio of 7 times. Uniroyal, somewhat ahead of Goodrich in stability and growth rate, is currently trading at 7.5 times projected 1973 net.

In other words, shareholders are willing to place a higher value on Goodyear shares on the basis of past record and future prospects. Nonetheless, the entire group is accorded relatively low multiples, reflecting concern over the costs to manufacturers of the shift to radial steel-belted tire production.

Uniroyal, at its current low price, appears to offer above-average appreciation potential while providing a generous yield. In 1972, record sales were reported, with earnings up 9.2 per cent year to year. The company is well situated to meet the fast rising demand from Detroit for steel-belted radials. A new plant devoted to producing these higher priced tires is still operating below capacity. The original equipment market accounts for about 40 per cent of Uniroyal's sales and it is in this market that the most rapid shift to steel belts is taking place. By 1975 some 65 per cent of new cars are expected to be equipped with the safer radials.



WOULDN'T FOOL A BEE

What resembles a honeycomb at General Electric's fluorescent lamp plant in Cleveland wouldn't fool a bee. Actually the honeycomb effect is given by a stack of phosphored tubes which will eventually become fluorescent lights. A technician is shown examining one of the tubes to assure that its phosphor coating meets rigid quality standards. The coating turns invisible ultraviolet energy into visible light when the lamp is operating.

Solid Waste Recycling Unit Formed

GREENWICH, Conn. (BW) — American Can Co. has established a new business unit, Americology Inc., for resource recovery through the recycling of solid waste, it was reported yesterday.

It will provide complete, turnkey facilities for processing metal, glass, paper and other valuable components of household and commercial refuse.

Each basic installation of the Americology system will process garbage at the rate of 500 tons per day — the output of a typical city or region of up to 150,000 people.

Installations will accept household and commercial refuse and will shred, air-classify and magnetically separate the mixture, preparatory to recycling or energy recovery.

The new company will guarantee markets for the ferrous metal components of the waste stream, and will develop markets and sell other recyclable materials, such as aluminum, glass and paper.

New Correction Typewriter Out

I-J Special Report

FRANKLIN LAKES, N.J. — A new typewriter called the IBM Correcting "Selectric" Typewriter, can make typing errors disappear on original copies.

Introduced by the Office Products Division of International Business Machines at Franklin Lakes, it enables secretaries to type most work at "rough draft" speeds, since all errors on originals can be corrected quickly at the keyboard without time-consuming erasures.

When the secretary makes an error, she simply backspaces to the incrrect character (or characters) by depressing the correcting key. This key activates a special tape which removes the error when the incorrect character is struck again. Then, the secretary types the correction and continues typing.

OTHER PEOPLE'S BUSINESS

New Owner Will Change Name Of San Anselmo Beauty Salon

Viola's Beauty Salon at 8 Bank Street in San Anselmo will change hands on April 1 and become THE 8 BANK STREET SALON AND BOUTIQUE.

Viola Bettencourt of San Anselmo, who has operated the salon for about 15 years, will sell it to Jackie (Mrs. Andrew M.) Desin of Kentfield, a former nurse whose husband operates a business in San Francisco.

Helping Mrs. Desin manage the new salon and boutique will be Roy Waxler of San Anselmo, who has been working at Viola's for 10 years. Waxler said the new owner plans to repaint and remodel the place, lowering the ceiling and redecorating in a summer-house motif, cool and clean looking. Gift items will be sold in the boutique portion of the beauty salon.

JOHANNSENS SHOES for Children, with headquarters in San Mateo, will purchase all the shoes from Morey's Junior Boot Shop at 1414 Fourth Street in San Rafael.

Howard Rice, part owner of Johannsens Shoes, said he is buying the shoes from Morey's but not the business itself. Johannsens Shoes also operates the Children's Boot Shop in Novato.

Howard L. and Mary Richcreek of Belvedere, who have operated Morey's Junior Boot Shop for the past one year, could not be reached immediately for comment. They purchased the shoe shop in March of 1972 from Gary Morey, who then opened the Sky Light custom framing shop at 1311 Fourth Street.

JAMES A. McCORMICK has been appointed assistant vice president of Redwood Bank's San Rafael office. He has primary responsibility for commercial and construction lending at the bank.

Before joining Redwood in February of 1972, McCormick was with the international banking department of Bank of America. He serves as treasurer of Buckelew Farms, the Marin County halfway house for schizophrenics.

McCormick Zeevat

JOHANNES ZEEVAT of Fairfax, real estate loan officer at Crocker Bank's One Montgomery Street office in San Francisco, has been named loan officer in the construction finance division of the bank's statewise real estate loan administration.

A native of Holland, Zeevat joined Crocker Bank in 1964 and has served since then at One Montgomery Street.

DR. STEPHEN A. SIMON, optometrist who has offices in San Francisco and at the Marinwood Professional Center, was named "outstanding young optometrist for 1972" by the California Optometric Association. He received the award, only one of five in the whole state, in ceremonies held in San Diego last month.

A lifelong resident of Marin, he has been practicing for five years. Dr. Simon is a member of the Marin County Draft Board and director for the department of internal affairs of the San Francisco Optometric Society. He lives in Terra Linda with his wife, Terrie, and their four children.

Simon

McSpadden

PHIL McSPADDEN of Tiburon has been named director of financial programming for Putnam Financial Services Inc. and will be working out of the firm's San Francisco division.

John L. Kassab of San Rafael, resident vice president, announced the appointment. Before taking his new post, McSpadden was supervisor of the financial programming department for Putnam Financial Services and its associated company, Western Travelers Life.

FOUR MEMBERS of the San Rafael office (Russell C. Troup District) of Equitable Life Assurance Society are back from a production award trip to the Bahamas. They are Alan Birch, William Callaghan, Paul Thurston and Russell Troup.

BILL EVEREST and HERB BURFORD of Marin Lights were crowned "Bosses of the Year 1973-74" by Marin County Credit Women in ceremonies held last week at the San Rafael Elks Club.

Everest

Burford

Everest and Burford are partners in Marin Lights, founded in 1960 on Irwin Street in San Rafael.

Marin County Credit Women, an organization of women credit managers from various companies in Marin, is headed by Myrtle Vinci, credit manager of the Independent-Journal.

MYRON DU BAIN of Kentfield, senior vice president of Fireman's Fund American Insurance Companies, has been elected president of the Oil Insurance Association.

The association, composed of 30 of the leading property-liability insurance groups in the United States, insures oil refineries.

THOMAS CALLINAN of Tiburon, a loan officer of United California Mortgage Company, San Francisco, was elected assistant vice president. He was transferred from the firm's Southern California headquarters in February.
